MARITIME STRIKE IS POSTPONED

Strike Truce May Be Asked In Coal Talks

Many Favor T-H Action To Halt Dec. 1 Stoppage

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The White House may ask John L. Lewis for a 60-day truce against a new coal strike, a top official said today.

This close adviser of President Truman said some White House officials favor quick use of the injunction provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law to bar a new mine strike on December 1. The present truce declared by Lewis expires then.

Another group of White House advisers, according to this official, wants Mr. Truman to offer Lewis a special fact-finding board outside the Taft-Hartley Law.

"This offer," he said, "if accepted, would call for a truce of at least 60 days."

Pointing up the bitter dispute between the miners and operators, Lewis' union headquarters issued a statement saying two big coal companies have raised coal prices to the retail dealer from 25 to 75 cents a ton. The statement quoted a union spokesman as saying "the coal companies are setting the stage for a gigantic price gouge of the American public."

"These unjustified price increases undoubtedly will lead to a further rooking of the American people by other companies. And then as always, these fat corporations will try to blame the union.

"They'll tell you that the men who go down into the pits and their union leaders are pricing coal out of the market. Well, the coal miners are still working under the terms of last year's agreement. And last year the industry made more money than ever before."

The statement said that the latest wholesale price increases probably will mean a boost from 50 cents to $1.50 a ton in retail coal prices.

Meanwhile, there were some reverberations from a sharp cut in the staff of Lewis' United Mine Workers union's welfare fund staff. Between 300 and 400 of the fund's employes received discharge notices yesterday.

It was reported that some of these discharged workers complained they should have received two weeks dismissal pay under an agreement with the UMW's District 50. Some of the workers were paying union dues to this branch of Lewis' union, even though indirectly they were employes of the union. Lewis is chairman of the fund's trustees.

The lay-offs were due to lack of money in the welfare fund. It's nearly broke because of heavy pension and insurance benefit expenditures.

Lewis has been seeking a boost in the 20-cent tonnage royalty on coal production which coal operators have paid to finance the fund. He also wants a pay boost and shorter hours for the miners.

All these demands have been refused by the operators, who want an extension of the old contract terms, but with stricter safeguards over welfare fund spending.

Southern coal operators finished a quarterly meeting today without comment on two recent Lewis requests for bargaining talks.

Electric Union Seeks Elections

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The CIO's new Electrical Union today petitioned the National Labor Relations Board for collective bargaining elections at all major electrical manufacturing firms.

Envy Of All The Frauleins

Sigrid von Haessler, Oldenburg, Germany, sits at a desk piled high with some of the 3,000 marriage proposals she says she has received from many parts of the world since her photograph appeared in a U. S. magazine. Living in a country where war depleted the ranks of eligible men, she is the envy of other German girls. In fact they are a bit impatient over her delay in making up her mind. They want her to pick one and turn the remaining applications over to them.

England's Labor Group Makes Election Deal

Will Delay Steel Nationalization

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP) — The Labor Government traded a delay in steel nationalization today for a free choice of the date for the next general election — possibly early next year.

Rising living costs following September's devaluation of the pound apparently are hurrying Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet toward the polls.

Their strategy now appears to call for an election in any event before issuance next April of the new annual budget, which may contain more bad news for hard up Britons.

Attlee must call an election some time before his government's five-year term expires next July. He has said he would not call one this year — and he has his own choice of a date unless a defeat in parliament forces an appeal to the voters.

But today he offered a compromise with the House of Lords on his government's bill to place the steel and iron industry under state ownership.

The bill sets next May 1 as take-over day for the industry. The Lords balked on that date, because they want an election verdict on state ownership of steel.

The Lords, predominately conservative, suggested July 1, 1951, as take-over day. The government compromise offered January 1, 1951, and the Lords are expected to accept it.

The government could override the peers' slow-down on steel, but the parliamentary procedure would take until mid-February. By compromising with the Lords now, the bill can be completed — although inoperative — before members of Parliament go home Dec. 16 for Christmas.

66-Year-Old Baker Is Sought In Sex-Slaying Of Child, 6

Girl's Body Is Found Near Home

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15 (AP)—The strangled, mutilated body of six-year-old Linda Joyce Glucoft, her head crushed by a blow from an axe, was found today in a rubbish heap a few doors from her home.

Police later set in motion a manhunt throughout the west for a 66-year-old baker already at large in a child molestation case.

Det. Sgt. Bill Brennan said: "All the evidence points to rape."

Police Chemist Ray Pinker, after a detailed examination of the house and yard, said: "It appears she was strangled to death in the house, wrapped in the blanket, taken outside and slugged over the head with the blunt end of the axe. We have fingerprints from the axe." He declined to say whose they are.

The killing was the latest of a series of brutal child murders in the past quarter century, climaxed three years ago by the still-unsolved Rochelle Gluskoter kidnap-slaying. She was killed by a man who lured her from play. Also unsolved are nearly a dozen sex crimes, in which women have been killed, some of them mutilated.

Taft Critical Of Truman Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today that adoption of President Truman's program next year would add more than $16,000,000,000 to the federal deficit and lead America to "stagnation and austerity."

Taft attacked "the entire Truman program" in a statement from his office here. The Ohioan, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, was in his home state pressing his campaign for re-election in 1950.

"We face a deficit of $5½ billion," Taft said. "Yet the Truman program would add to that $6 billion for compulsory medicine, $6 billion for the Brannan Plan, $4 billion for UMT and other billions for services of all kinds."

His references were to the system of compulsory health insurance frequently advocated by the President, to the "production payment" plan for keeping up farmer's income sponsored by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, and to a long-pending proposal for universal military training—"UMT."

Taft asked in his statement:

"How can we increase our federal tax 50 per cent without choking the development of all business expansion and creating vast unemployment?"

President Truman, Taft continued, argues that anybody who "objects the the expense of any of his plans is a reactionary."

Disputing this, Taft said opponents "are convinced that only a continuation of our present system of liberty and particularly liberty from government controls can reach the goals of the utopia which he describes."

Red China Moves To Take UN Seat Of Nationalists

Commies Disown Present Envoys

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 15 (AP)—Red China today disowned Nationalist China's delegation to the United Nations in the opening move of a campaign apparently aimed at taking over the big power seat assigned to the receding Chungking government.

At the same time it was disclosed here that nine Chinese embassy employes in Paris who bolted over to the Communist side several weeks ago are trying to woo other overseas Chinese diplomats into their camp. Delegation sources said this campaign was having no success here.

The Red repudiation of the delegation here was announced in a broadcast from Peiping which was picked up by the Federal Communication Commission's monitoring service.

The Costello Story

Costello In Liquor Business Before And After Prohibition

With the repeal of prohibition, Frank Costello nimbly leaped to the legal side of the liquor business and began the latter-day phase of his fabulous career. The following is the fourth in a series of six articles about the underworld's mysterious Mr. Moneybags.

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (INS) — Frank Costello's psychiatrist told him some years ago to mingle with the better class of New Yorker, and the pudgy, soft-spoken ally of the late Al Capone has done his best to obey the edict.

In 1944, though his last-known legitimate job had been that of a semi-skilled laboring man, he purchased a 13-story and a 14-story building in Wall Street and a smaller building on Water Street. His 79 Wall Street Corporation, as it is called, rents to highly legitimate clients.

In his searching examination of the life and times of Costello, Herbert Asbury of Collier's learned in 1947 that the properties were assessed at $512,000 at the time of purchase. Shortly thereafter their assessed value was reduced to $473,000, and Asbury added, "apparently it's just one of those lucky breaks that a big shot so often gets."

Costello was at least once part owner and exclusive United States agent of one of Scotland's most distinguished old distilleries, the Whiteley Co., makers of King's Ransom and House of Lords Scotch whisky.

The New York State Liquor Authority made the following report to the United States Senate last September, in connection with an alleged tieup among Gen. Harry Vaughan, John Maragon, William Helis, Costello et al:

"In February of 1948 the N. Y. State Liquor Authority refused to renew the wholesale liquor license of a partnership known as International Distributors. In the course of the investigation which preceded that action, the following facts were elicited:

"During prohibition the products of the Whiteley distilleries (King's Ransom and House of Lords Scotch whiskey) were sold in Canada by one August Carillo. Frank Costello bought these products and bootlegged them in the United States.

"In December, 1933, a corporation known as Alliance Distributors, Inc., obtained a wholesale liquor license in New York State. One of the stockholders was August Carillo, another was one Irving Haim, who also had bootlegging connections during prohibition. Carillo . . . received through Alliance a commission or override of 2½ shillings (fifty cents) on each case of Whiteley's products sold in the United States.

"In April or May of 1934, a few months after the corporation com-

Mother Found Innocent, Insane In Deaths Of 4

By JOSEPH E. GARLAND

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 15 (AP) — Deathly pale and fighting back her sobs, a young unwed mother was found innocent of murder by reason of insanity, by a Superior Court Jury today in the tragic carbon monoxide deaths of her four children.

Judge Vincent Brogna ordered pretty Evelyn C. Roche, 33, of Chelmsford committed to Danvers State Hospital for life.

Her attempt to end her own life with those of her children by piping exhaust fumes from a rented automobile into its interior March 20, 1948, had failed.

Father of the children, who ranged in age from three weeks to seven years, was Peter Roche, 70-year-old Leominster horse fancier and cousin of her father who befriended the homeless girl when she was 16.

The dramatic trial lasted but two days and ended with a jury deliberation of only 50 minutes.

Miss Roche heard the verdict with deeply bowed head. Terribly pale, she bit her lip in an effort to fight back the tears. Throughout the trial she had sat motionless, her head in her hands.

In an almost unprecedented move, Assistant District Attorney Lyman C. Sprague summoned witness after witness who told of the tragedy of the defendant's early home life and her deep attachment to and reliance upon the father of her children.

Four phychiatrists testified they believed she was insane at the time of the deaths — driven so partly by news of the death of her aged lover and sole support—Roche—three days before.

Culmination of the trial came when Sprague told the jury:

"In a hard fought case, these doctors would normally be summoned by the defense.x x x"

AchesonHighly Pleased With ReichMeasures

Secretary Of State Reports To Truman On Big-3 Sessions

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson reported to President Truman today on new German measures worked out by the Big Three Foreign Ministers at Paris.

Returning here from a week-long visit to the French capitol and to Germany itself, Acheson expressed himself as being highly pleased with the results of his mission.

His two-day conference with Foreign Ministers Bevin of Britain and Schuman of France, he said, was "entirely harmonious" and the three reached "full agreement." Talks with leaders in Germany were "very satisfying for me," Acheson told reporters.

In advance of his call at the White House late in the day, Acheson declined to discuss in detail any of the accomplishments of the Paris meeting or his views on the situation in West Germany.

Shortly before his arrival, however, Chancellor Conrad Adenauer announced at Frankfurt that the three western powers had agreed to slow down dismantling of key German industries and laid out other measures which would have the effect of building up the German economy and giving the new German state a greater voice in its internal and international affairs.

No Changes In Civil Rights

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — President Truman served notice tonight that there will be "no retreat and no retirement" in the fight for his civil rights program.

The American people, he declared, "are awakened as never before to the true meaning of equality."

"We are going to continue to advance in our program of bringing equal rights and equal opportunities to all citizens," he said.

In an address prepared for the National Council of Negro Women, the President praised its founder and retiring president, Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, for her work in fighting "racial or religious discrimination."

"In that great cause," he said, "there is no retreat and no retirement, and I know Mrs. Bethune is going to stand by me as she has from the beginning."

The President thus indicated once more that, in the face of stubborn opposition among Southern Democrats, he will continue to push anti-lynching, anti-poll tax and other measures which were a big factor in his loss of four southern states in the Presidential election last year.

His Secretary of Labor, Maurice J. Tobin, had given assurance earlier today that "the fight will be kept up" for a law ending job discrimination.

Third American Convicted Of World War II Treason

Burgman Wheeled Into Court Room

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — Slumped in a wheelchair, Herbert J. Burgman, 53, former clerk in the U. S. Embassy in Berlin, was convicted of treason today for broadcasting Nazi propaganda during World War II.

The maximum penalty for treason is death; the minimum, five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Still suffering the after effects of a heart attack, Burgman heard the verdict without visible emotion. He stared dully at the floor until he was wheeled out of the courtroom and taken back to the district jail infirmary.

Burgman was the third American convicted this year of the only crime mentioned in the U. S. constitution — betrayal of his country in wartime.

The other two were Maine-born Mildred E. (Axis Sally) Gillars, 48, sentenced on March 25 to spend 10 to 30 years in prison for her broadcasts over Radio Berlin, and Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino, 33, known as "Tokyo Rose," who was sentenced October 6 to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine for her Japanese propaganda broadcasts.

A federal jury of seven men and five women reached a verdict of "guilty as charged" against Burgman after five hours of deliberation.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff did not announce when he will pass sentence.

Burgman, a native of Hokah, Minn., admitted during the five-week trail that he made broadcasts over the German shortwave radio "Station Debunk" — purportedly broadcasting from a hidden location in the American mid-west but actually originating in Berlin. He said he used the name "Joe Scanlon."

He denied, however, that he intended to betray the United States, and contended that he was driven to broadcast by fear of the Nazi Gestapo, after being "abandoned" in Germany by the American Embassy.

Government prosecutors said Burgman refused to return to this country with other diplomatic personnel after the outbreak of the war.

Chief Prosecutor William A. Paisley "cast his lot with the enemy willingly ... he adhered to the enemy and gave them aid and comfort."

Burgman's Attorney, James J. Laughlin, who also served as defense counsel for "Axis Sally," pictured Burgman as a man "sick in mind and body, abandoned by his government to face the pent-up hatred of the Nazis."

Laughlin said he will file a motion for a new trial.

CONVICTED — Slumped in his wheel chair with eyes clamped shut, Herbert J. Burgman is wheeled from District Court in Washington, D. C., after a federal jury convicted him of treason for broadcasts made during World War II. He is the third American to be convicted on the charge this year.

Roosevelt Seeks Calif. Election

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15 (AP) — James Roosevelt, the late FDR's eldest son, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic and Republican nominations for governor of California in the 1950 primaries.

At the same time he made a move for White House support.

He said he will do his best to bring President Truman's "fair deal" to California. Asked at a press conference if that meant that he approved of the "fair deal" program in its entirety, Roosevelt said he did.

He also told the press conference that while he disapproved of the California law which permits a candidate to file for the nomination by more than one party, he will do so.

Thus he will be running not only as a Democrat—with the party his father restored to power in 1932—but as a Republican.

He said his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, will not be asked to participate in his campaign, but he remarked: "She pays frequent visits to members of her family. I hope that during the winter she will pay us a visit."

Roosevelt, who served with the marines as a colonel during the war, has been a California resident 11 years. He will be 42 years old next month.

Announcement of his candidacy was to be repeated on two radio broadcasts later tonight, but he released copies of his speech at the press conference.

Extention Of 30-Days May Halt Walkout

Terms Subject To Approval Of Unions, Shippers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—A strike of 2,000 AFL deck officers operating from Gulf and Atlantic Coast ports, which had threatened to tie up all shipping in the region, was postponed tonight on the plea of government mediators.

The strike had been called for midnight.

Little more than an hour before that deadline, a 30-day extension was agreed upon, subject to approval of the rank and file of the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots and the 38 companies making up the employers' group from Atlantic and Gulf ports.

The deadline for approval by the union and employers is next Monday.

A strike will be possible if either party rejects the peace plan as early as next Tuesday noon, November 22.

Terms of the contract between the deck officers and the employers which expired September 30 will be extended until 12:01 a. m. Dec 16 under the plan, if both sides approve it by next Monday.

The announcement of the removal of the midnight strike threat was made by William N. Margolis, assistant director of the Federal Mediation Service. Margolis took over the dispute on Monday when the government asked the parties to come to Washington for peace talks.

The central issue in the dispute is the union's demand for rotary hiring halls—by which union members would get the jobs available in turn. The union wants to spread employment by having its members take turns shipping out.

It was learned that other AFL unions were anxious to avert a tieup. They were pledged by AFL President William Green to respect picket lines and to support the deck officers' strike in every way if it developed.

Such support could tie up all shipping in the east except inside ports or on coal barges, oil tankers and ships of the armed forces.

The contract extension, third since September 30, was thrown into the deadlocked dispute by Margolis as a last resort.

The shipowners, members of the American Merchant Marine Institute, were vigorously opposed to setting up a fact-finding board with authority to recommend a settlement. The union was agreeable to such a solution.

Major stumbling block was the union's demand that the present preferential hiring arrangement which gives it a virtual union shop, be brought into what is termed a rotary hiring hall.

The union wanted its members to be picked to operate the 500 Atlantic and Gulf Port vessels in rotation rather than by chance.

The companies insist that their only connection with their cargo and passenger vessels while they are at sea depends upon the officers and they want to select those men.

A short while before the truce was announced, an industry source in New York said most of the companies involved favored the setting up of a fact finding board. This official, who declined to be named, said he based this estimate on a telephone survey.

Russia Called 'Hypocrite' In UN Peace Talk

Yugoslavia Cites Campaign On Tito

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 15 (AP) — Yugoslavia accused the Soviet Union today of monstrous hypocrisy in talking peace before the United Nations while carrying on a campaign against Marshal Tito.

Canada and China joined in an attack on the so-called peace proposals Moscow has presented to the U. N. Canada declared the Kremlin should disband communist fifth columns in foreign countries. China said the Moscow proposal "adds insult to injury." The proposal is that the Soviet Union join the United States, Britain, France and China in a compact for peace.

The views were presented in the political committee of the U. N. assembly. Canada, New Zealand and China backed a rival American-British proposal for reaffirmation of belief in the U. N. charter and for a settlement on 12 essentials of peace.

Yugoslavia accepted most—but not all—of the U. S.-British proposal. As to the Soviet five-power pact plan, Yugoslavia expressed doubt that such a pact would do any more for peace than the peace pledges in the U. N. charter.

Soft-spoken Milovan Djilas, Yugoslav minister of state and one of the four men in Yugoslavia most hated by the Kremlin, told of repeated Soviet attempts to dominate Yugoslavia and said the Russians had lined up other Balkan countries against the Tito regime.

"How can the struggle of the leaders of one country or movement for peace be sincere if these leaders organize at the same time a pressure campaign against a peace loving state?" Djilas asked. "Indeed, it would seem that this struggle is not a struggle for the peace of the peoples of Yugoslavia but a struggle against them. There is something monstrous in this hypocrisy — under the cloak of peace propaganda actually aggressive pressure is being exercised against a small country."

John L. Lewis Pays Up For Coal Strike Of '48

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — John L. Lewis paid up today.

The United Mine Workers' lawyers handed over $1,420,000 to Harry M. Hull, U. S. District Court Clerk. That's the penalty Judge T. Alan Goldsborough put on Lewis and his miners for their refusal to obey a court order and stop the 1948 coal strike.

Welly Hopkins, the miners' top lawyer, sorrowfully told reporters:

"This probably is the biggest fine ever paid by a defendant in the federal courts—certainly the biggest ever paid by a labor union."

Only last Monday the miners had lost their last hope: The Supreme Court refused to hear their appeal.

Today's ceremony had none of the drama that has marked previous Goldsborough vs. Lewis encounters.

For one thing, Lewis himself was missing. He left to the lawyers the onerous chore of paying up.

They arrived promptly at 11 a. m. with a $1,400,000 check to cover the contempt fine against the union. They also had $20,000 in cash for the contempt fine against Lewis.

(Lewis didn't have to dig up this cash himself, however. The miners decided in their Cincinnati convention that they should foot Lewis' fine).

The lawyers and the government's attorney, Samuel Abrams, met first with Hull. Then they went across the street to Goldsborough's office. The only conversation en route concerned the weather. Everybody agreed it was a fine day.

Pacific Fighting Threatens Isolation Of U. S. Outposts

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, Nov. 15 (AP)—The American defense arc in the Western Pacific is in danger of shrinking into isolated outposts.

This impression is almost inevitable after visiting two of the main points on the thin curve of American air bases drawn around turbulent Asia's rim.

The island of Formosa lies almost midway between these two bases. It is now held by the Chinese Nationalists, but among American officers nearby there is little doubt that, if the present trend continues, Formosa will eventually fall to the Chinese Communists. It is within fighter plane range of both Okinawa and the Philippines.

In unfriendly hands, Formosa could breach the American line. The Japanese used air bases there to knock American airpower out of the Philippines in December 1941.

Col. J. R. Carpenter, chief of staff of the Philippine Air Command at Clark Field, put the general opinion rather mildly.

"Our position," he told visiting correspondents, "would not be untenable, but it would be more dangerous if Formosa, in the center of our defense arc, should fall under Communist control.

Clark Field, which costs about $1,500,000 a month to maintain, also confronts another threat. It is situated in the center of the area where the Communist-led Hukbalahap guerrillas range.

Armed with hand guns and mortars, these dissident Filipinos operate up to the front gates of the American base. The neat Air Force post periodically hears gunfire just outside. It is unsafe to leave the field at night, and next to impossible to drive the 60 miles to Manila in the darkness, due to the danger of "Huk" ambushes.

One rickety railway and two bumpy highways connect Clark Field with the sea. The Huks, led by avowed Communists, could conceivably be enticed into cutting Clark Field off from supplies in time of conflict.

Okinawa, perhaps the more important of the two bases, is not now troubled by political problems.

Maj. Gen. J. R. Sheetz, military governor, says there is no known Communist movement among the 560,000 Okinawans.

The standard elements for Communist encroachment are there, however. The docility and political immaturity of the Okinawans could make them easy prey for Red agents. This might be particularly true if the Americans fail to solve the island's complex economic problems. Okinawan living standards are lower now than before the war.

Both Okinawa and Clark Field are in condition now to handle the heaviest bombers in use. Bombers are not stationed at either place, however. It is considered unnecessary to keep them in such advanced positions before an actual emergency. Each base does have a group of fast jet fighter planes.

Expert On China Recommends U.S. Recognize Reds

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (INS) — An American expert on China predicted today that Chinese Communist "are going to be with us for a long time" and recommended the United States seek "mutual toleration" with them.

Dr. Derk Bodde, associate professor of Chinese at the University of Pennsylvania, made his observations on the basis of a year spent in Peking, now the capital of the Communist "People's Republic" of China.

Writing in the "Far Eastern Survey," fortnightly bulletin of the American Institute of Pacific Relations, Bodde said the United States should be "realistic" about recognition of the Communist regime. He explained:

"This government looks as if it is going to remain in China for a considerable time to come.

"In due course it will be recognized not only, as now, by Russia and her group, but (for commericial reasons) by nations like Britain.

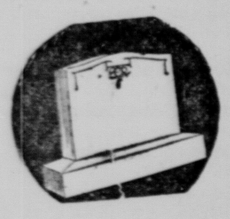

"What will be better for us when that happens to act in common with those nations, while we can yet do so with good grace, or remain sulking in our corner?

"I submit that we should be prepared to consider relations with the Chinese Communists on the basis of their self-announced platform of 'equality, mutual benefit, mutual respect of territorial integrity and sovereignty.' "

Robert Hutchins Sees College Only As Start Of Ideal Adult Education

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 (AP)—Robert M. Hutchins, a pioneer in new ideas of education who has made many changes in two decades as head of the University of Chicago, has other changes in mind.

For one thing, he said in an interview, he would be in favor of abolishing college commencements.

That is, he qualified, "if we could establish the idea that an education should continue through an entire life.

"We try to teach students how to think and train them in the habits of study. Then they should go out and educate themselves for the balance of their lives."

Hutchins, the one time "youngest college president," now has the longest tenure of any chief of a major university. Saturday he will observe the 20th anniversary of his inauguration as head man at Chicago. At 50, he says, he has become something of a Methuselah.

"When I first came here, somebody said something about my youth," Hutchins recalled. "One of the deans told him: 'Don't worry, he'll be ten years older in six months.' At that rate I'm 450."

And how is education doing in the U. S.?

"The principle problem of education is the definition of its purpose," he said. "If the educational system is a housing project, we don't have anything to worry about. We're doing a good job.

"But if the principal aim of the education system is to try to make the population more intelligent, then we don't seem to have got very far with it."

Nevertheless, Hutchins, gray over the temples but still trim, has seen considerable growth in educational institutions in the last 20 years.

"You have two opposing tendencies at work," he said. "There is the effort to make sense out of education and the effort to expand education without making sense of it. Which tendency is predominant depends on your point of view.

"You see Chicago, Harvard, St. John's, Yale and many others working hard, trying to make sense of education. On the other hand, if you are interested in questions of quantity, you see an almost infinite multiplication of educational institutions and educational programs without much regard to quality."

Hutchins hung the "good" tag on some developments.

"Research—notably scientific research—has been established as a university activity," he said. "Even state universities have no difficulty in getting appropriations for research. The possibilities for future expansion of research are unlimited.

"I think equality of opportunity has gained. Education no longer is the privilege of the rich."

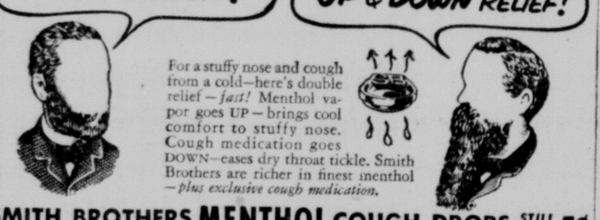

Hutchins readjusted his long frame (six feet, three) to his chair, lit a cigaret and had a look at the future. He predicted a growth in adult education. He figures the place to plant the seeds is a school. After that students should educate themselves.

Hutchins—first as president and, since 1945, as chancellor—has made eventful changes at Chicago. Among other things, he junked the credit system and rules requiring students to attend classes.

He kicked big time football off the campus. He established the unprecedented College where bright youngsters can start at the end of two years in high school

Some Tentative Agreement On Germany's Future

The foreign ministers' conference has ended at Paris with some tentative agreement on Germany's future — which Secretary of State Acheson apparently completed in his discussions with German leaders at Bonn.

The Paris meeting was urgent. Germany, the powerhouse of the continent, is essential to the recovery of Western Europe. But the Western allies are still tearing down German industrial plants, while the Russians in their zone are leaving such plants intact. As part of their propaganda for a united, communized Germany, they cite the Western policy as deliberate destruction of Germany as a nation. The result is terrific domestic pressure on the conservative Adenauer government at Bonn, which is the best immediate hope of creating something like a democratic Germany.

While it was true (up to the time of this meeting) that the United States, Great Britain and France have never seen eye to eye on this problem, the meeting just concluded could have the result of bringing them closer together and allay whatever concern may have existed for the security of Western Europe.

Put bluntly and realistically, the main obstacles, at the moment, to restoration of Germany to the family of nations are British fear of German competition in world trade and France's dread of German industrial recovery as a threat to her national security. That fear is genuine and cannot be ignored. So France and Britain were committed to a program of keeping the Reich in a strait jacket. It has not been ignored by able U. S. Commissioner McCloy. Yet he is troubled by the likelihood that if Germany be allowed to drift into a depression, the Adenauer regime will be ousted by something much worse.

Recognizing the fact that France and England do not go to the extent of suggesting that Germany become a strictly agricultural nation—as former Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau once foolishly proposed—but want to limit its productive capacity in the manufacturing field, Adenauer, who seems to have some of the qualities of a statesman, reportedly made two proposals to the ministers in Paris.

Eager for Franco-German reconciliation, he offers security guarantees, including international control of the Ruhr industries and co-operation with inter-allied authority to prevent German rearmament. In return, the Western powers would stop dismantling German factories which serve civilian needs. As an outsider with a detached viewpoint, the United States is convinced that the wrecking process has gone far enough. In the first place, the Germans in the Western zone are so discouraged by the restrictions put upon their industrial activities that they are openly wondering whether it would not be to their advantage to turn toward the Soviet.

The proposals made by Adenauer sound like a realistic approach to the problem. Sooner or later the British will have to face the facts of German rivalry in world trade. As for France, with her historically justified fear of German militarism, her security would be even more endangered by a communized Germany under Russian control.

In the interest, then, of keeping the world more or less free and of making all of Europe reasonably prosperous, it is earnestly to be hoped that Mr. Acheson succeeds in persuading France and Great Britain to see the light.

Manufacturers are again advised to hold back their price cuts until they can make really substantial ones. In other words, not to shoot until they can see the whites of the consumers' eyes.

People Are Walking Again, And Far

They are walking again, and far. Recently newspapers pictured a couple with a toy wagon laden with camping effects and with 950 miles behind them and 3,400 to go on their "across America afoot journey." Also, people are riding again, and far. The same issues of publications pictured two girls, aged 18 and 19, at the end of a 1,500-mile trip, on horseback and in a ramshackle buggy, from Chicago to the Texas town of Waco. As they explained, "they wanted to see Texas and picked Waco because they liked the sound of the name." Could there be a better reason? That's why many persons go to this or that place.

Back in 1913, when the Lincoln Highway was blueprinted from coast to coast, wanderers began their cross-country hikes, calling on town mayors along the way to attest with their signatures that somebody had gone through. After a while the custom lost its novelty and popular appeal, and was discontinued, only to start up again now. However, the notable achievements were made long before by a former New York Herald reporter known to the encyclopedias as "Edward Payson Weston, pedestrian." He attracted attention in 1861 by walking 443 miles in 208 hours to attend the Lincoln inauguration. In 1867 he walked 1,326 miles from Portland (Me.) to Chicago in 104 days, seven hours. In 1910, at 70, he walked to New York from California, 3,500 miles, in less than 77 days.

We return to the first couple in this article. With their purpose "to obtain material for a book and magazine stories," they are in the oldest of traditions. So walked Herodotus, through France, Scythia, Asia Minor and the Persian Empire, including Egypt—in other words to "far-away places with strange-sounding names." That was 2,400 years ago, and he became the Father of History.

College professor says that talking to the bones affects dice. Still the connection between seven and eleven and ivory seems remote.

Two Democrats Not Quite In Agreement

In his St. Paul address Harry Truman, President of the United States, declared—after his usual fling at "the selfish interests"—that "a growing country like ours can provide increasing prosperity and freedom for all the citizens." He did not mention that, despite heavy taxes, he is running an annual deficit of $5,500,000,000, and that his plan to "provide increasing prosperity" is simply to levy more billions in taxes. That's what is called "Statism."

About the same time, a Democratic governor of a midwest state, made three simple statements: (1) "We can't get overnight everything we want." (2) "We are not going to strengthen the weak man by weakening the strong man." (3) "We can't help the man who earns wages by destroying the man who pays them."

That's what could be called Common Sense.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Heart Disease Comes In Many Packages

MANY different forms of heart disease exist. Some are so trivial that the victim lives a normal life span, and would be unaware of the defect unless told of it by a physician. At the other extreme are lesions that prove incapacitating.

The mounting incidence in this country of disease of the pumping apparatus is due in part to our longer life expectancy. This is evident by the increasing number of heart victims in the older age group who are treated in clinics, hospitals, and the physician's office. The situation should not be viewed with alarm because in many respects it represents an accomplishment. Never before have we had 11 million men and women 65 years of age and older. Some have aged more than their friends in appearance or behavior. With others, the heart is not what is used to be and individuals showing demonstrable changes are said to have heart trouble.

Poor circulation through arteriosclerosis is affecting the pumping mechanism in the same way at it affects the extremities, skin, brain, and various structures throughout the body. To be more specific, it is the coronary arteries that are involved in this type of heart malady. These passageways have become thickened, hardened, and more brittle through years of wear and tear. The cardiac muscle suffers because its nourishment flows through these channels. This may not be bothersome at rest but when the demands are augmented through excitement or exercise, the outcome is known as "coronary thrombosis." These are the two most important forms of arteriosclerotic heart disease. They occur in the elderly as a natural process and prematurely in the middle aged through strenuous living.

In youth, heart disease is due usually to infection, of which rheumatic fever is the most notorious. In this condition the streptococcus plays a role and the valves usually bear the brunt of the attack, becoming scarred sufficiently to produce "leakage." The seriousness of this abnormality depends upon the extent of the damage as the lesion may vary from insignificant to incapacitating. To overcome the defect, the heart often enlarges, especially in those who are overexerting themselves. By minimizing exercise and avoiding infections, most victims of this disorder live a long and comfortable existence.

Heart disease also may result from a protracted elevation in blood pressure. Hypertension generally is associated with enlargement because maintaining the greater tension produces a strain on the heart muscle. It is analogus to the pumping station in any city or town; in order to increase the pressure in the water mains the tempo of the pump would be boosted or a larger machine installed. Moreover, hypertension encourages arteriosclerosis; hence involvement of the coronary arteries is not uncommon in high blood pressure.

Cardiac disease may be associated with disturbances in rhythm. Irregularities alter the output and the same phenomenon occurs when the beat is too rapid or too slow. The latter is preferred if a choice were possible because the "ticker" is given more rest. Many of our oldest individuals have slow pulse rates. The young and middle aged are not immune. Napoleon's was said to be less than 60 and he was able to scamper all over Europe without difficulty. A slow beat rarely is bothersome unless it interferes with circulation to the brain, causing occasional bouts of dizziness and fainting.

THE RUSSIANS WITHDRAW THEIR ENTRY IN THE FLOWER SHOW

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Girlies Got "Cap" Krug; Got His Wife, Got Congress, Finally Got Truman; Newspapers Held Criticism; Personal Business Kept Secretary Out of Washington

Says DREW PEARSON

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15 — Two morals can be drawn from the quiet exit of lusty likable, 250-pound Julius A. Krug from the Truman cabinet.

No. 1—It doesn't pay for a man in public life to be publicized with Hollywood girlies.

No. 2—The press can't criticize one of Harry Truman's cabinet members if they want him to resign. Criticism merely freezes a man in the cabinet.

In the case of Secretary of the Interior "Cap" Krug, some of the newspapers played up the Johnny Meyers parties and the Hollywood beauties who entertained Krug when he was chairman of the War Production Board. And at the time this had a tendency to solidify "Cap's" position in the cabinet—for the President invariably rallies to his cabinet's defense when they are under attack.

That, however, was three years ago. And for the past year, Krug and Truman have not been getting along at all. The sparks have flown on several occasions. One scathing letter written to the Secretary of the Interior by the President was the kind no President writes to a cabinet member unless he wants him to resign.

Krug also had more of his Interior Department bills vetoed than any other cabineteer in recent history. And when the head of the cabinet, the President, turns thumbs down on the legislative proposals of a member of his own official family, you can expect a resignation.

On top of all this, Krug got himself involved in litigation over a $750,000 loan he had floated to finance the purchase of a textile mill near Knoxville, Tenn.

Mrs. K.

This time, however, several of the newsmen who knew what was happening kept mum. They were afraid that criticism once again would arouse Truman's ire, once again would freeze Krug in the cabinet. In a way, this is a reflection on one of the chief functions of the press—namely to keep an eye on and report the operations of public officials. Nevertheless, under Harry Truman's reverse way of doing things, newspapers sometimes have to work in reverse, too.

The tragic fact about Julius A. Krug is that most of his life he was an A-1 public servant. He started with a great career. He did a bang-up job with the Tennessee Valley Authority, then came into cabinet at the age of 36, the youngest Secretary of the Interior in history.

What really put the political skids under him, however, was the girlie episode in Hollywood. When the Brewster committee got hold of Johnny Meyers' expense accounts, with payments listed to certain ladies for the entertainment of "Cap" Krug, well naturally Mrs. Krug didn't like it.

She had been living on the modest salary of a public official while her friends wore mink coats and rode in swank convertibles. And she had been willing to make the sacrifice as long as she thought her husband was doing it for the good of the country. But after the girlie episode in Hollywood, it was only natural that she should wonder whether the sacrifice was worth while.

Hot In Congress, Too

So Cap found himself in hot water all the way around. He was in hot water when he went up on Capitol Hill. For while "Cap" testified about irrigation and wild life, the Senators couldn't help having smiles on their faces as they thought of those. Johnny Meyers expense accounts. Naturally this undermined "Cap's" ability to battle things out with Congress, made it difficult to get his legislative program OK'd. And this, in turn, was one reason for the White House vetoes.

Meanwhile, Cap was in wrong with his wife, whom he tried to please by buying a convertible, a new house, and other things which she had wanted.

Naturally, this took money, and like any man with a fixed income and high income taxes, "Cap" couldn't make any real money without borrowing and trying for a capital gains tax. Probably this was why he made a small investment in the Los Angeles Rams football team, and also why he borrowed $700,000 to hold an interest in the Brookside Mills, a textile factory in Tennessee.

So far as this columnist can see, there was nothing wrong with "Cap" Krug's investment in Brookside. He got his original investment in the mill before he entered the cabinet. It is true that after he entered the cabinet, he borrowed $700,000 to secure control of the mill, and later borrowed another $750,000 to pay off the first loan. However, this type of transaction is no different from that practiced by many businessmen today.

In Secretary's Krug's case, however, the deal hurt him two ways. In the first place, it detracted from the time he spent in Washington. During many weeks he lived five days a week in New York, flew down to Washington Friday morning for cabinet meetings.

The only Interior Department business in New York is Bedloes island, on which stands the Statue of Liberty. Obviously Krug could not have spent weeks in New York worrying about the upkeep of the Statue of Liberty.

The other way the textile deal hurt was that Nathan Sheinman, from whom Krug borrowed $750,000 on April 16, 1948, now wants one phase of his agreement arbitrated. He claims that he was to be the exclusive sales agent for Brookside Mills and that Krug and his partner, Thomas Epstein, owe him $90,000 in commissions.

To block this arbitration, Krug and Epstein have asked for an injuction in the New York Supreme Court, claiming that Sheinman's proposed arbitration "represents a blatant attempt on Sheinman's part to seize control of Brookside Mills through a misuse of arbitration."

Assuming that Krug is entirely right, and Judge Bernard Botein has ruled in his favor on two of three counts, nevertheless it is difficult for any cabinet officer to keep his mind on intricate financial deals plus the 101 details connected with supervising Alaskan defense, strikes in Hawaii, the reclamation fight in California, education of the Navajos in Arizona, national parks from Yellowstone to Yosemite, and the economic worries of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, to say nothing of Bedloes Island and the Statue of Liberty.

Russian Strategy On Stage Of World Affairs Changing

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Russia's strategy on the stage of world affairs has taken on a new turn lately. The Soviets now are plainly determined to bring about such a condition of affairs that neither the United States nor Russia might of its own initiative use the atom bomb in the next war. Neither country then would drop a bomb unless the other did so first—which means a stalemate even without an explicit agreement.

If this maneuver is successful, it can affect materially the kind of defense the United States has available. It can mean that the next war would be fought more along the lines of World War II with conventional weapons and particularly with land armies holding the balance of power.

The Russian purpose is revealed in the speeches being made by her spokesmen. Not only is there pressure now by Moscow for a modified kind of atomic control but there also is a very apparent effort to condemn the bomb as an uncivilized weapon. Thus, in his speech at the United Nations Jacob Malik referred to Hiroshima as a "peaceful city" and gave the impression that the United States has not been particular about confining bombs to military installations, preferring to use them on civilian populations.

The Thing Back of Argument

It may be that the Russians derived this point from recent discussions in the American press concerning the differing views of the U. S. Air Force and U. S. Naval Air Force on the manner in which atom bombs should be used. The naval aviators contend that the atom bomb should be used by all the armed services for military targets only and its use should not be confined to any one branch of the service. The naval view is that "precision bombing" is necessary and that high altitude or "area bombing" means inaccurate bombing with a possibility that military targets will be missed completely. This is really what's back of the argument as to what distance away from the bomb explosion there is lethal damage. The experts differ but it seems agreed that a mile and a half away there is relative safety for individuals except from flying debris and possibly fire.

When planes fly at an altitude of nearly eight miles and at a speed of 400 miles or more an hour, a miss of as much as a mile or two on a target is a possibility. It is to avoid this kind of error which might mean the unnecessary destruction of human life in areas not regarded as "military installations" that the drive now is on for lower altitude flying and more precision bombing from new jet planes.

The Russians, of course, have an advantage in large armies. Hence they have not looked comfortably at the idea advanced by the military men of America that to offset the Soviet land armies, the atom bomb would promptly be dropped on 70 Russian cities. Indeed, it is argued in Washington by those skeptics who don't believe the Russians have perfected the atom bomb that they announced their explosion primarily for propaganda reasons. The idea presumably was to institute a demand for the outlawing of a weapon they know they cannot make in large quantities for a long time to come.

The Soviet concept now apparently is to threaten to use the atom bomb on European cities as a measure of retaliation, precisely as Americans have been predicting that the bomb would be used against Russia if she moved her land armies across Europe.

World Opinion May Outlaw It

It is conceivable, therefore, that the Russian purpose is to bring about a situation in which world opinion will, in effect, outlaw the atom bomb even without any pact on international control.

In the last war Germany had poison gas ready and so had the Allies. It was stored in immense quantities behind the Allied lines ready for instant use. There was no agreement between Hitler and the Allies on the point but each side recognized the disadvantages and declined to be the first to use it. Russia centainly has more of an advantage in withholding the atom bomb than in using it. America has to guess, however, how many bombs Russia has and risk the destruction of cities on the west coast of the United States as well as in Britain

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Collapsing Communists

IT IS TIME to point out that the American Communist party no longer merits the occasionally hysterical attention it has been getting. For the fact is that the party is well on the way to having approximately the same real political importance as the Greenbackers or the Single Taxers.

Even in its heyday, the C. P. U. S. A. never had anything approaching a mass following. Yet it has had real political significance. This significance has derived from two vital assets. The first has been the party's very considerable toehold in the labor movement. And the second, in some ways more useful, has been the party's influence with the kind of fuzzy-minded but articulate left-wing intellectual who believed that the Communists were only a particularly eager brand of liberal, and therefore worked with them, as in last year's Wallace campaign.

Losing Both Precious Assets

The Communists are now clearly losing both these precious assets. The ridiculous Wallace campaign itself seriously weakened the Communists' hold on the intellectual left—the departure of The New Republic magazine from the Wallace camp was one obvious symptom of this weakening process. But now the process has been vastly accelerated. For Marshall Tito has given the left-wing intellectuals a new hero, more palatable than Josef Stalin, in their frantic search for the total answer.

The same thing has, of course, been going on abroad. In England, for example, such intellectual left-wingers as Alexander Werth and Konni Zilliacus have dismayed their Communist admirers by embracing Tito; and in France intellectuals like Claude Bourdet and Jean Cassou have deviated for the first time in years.

Moreover, the split has internally rent the French, Italian, and other Communist parties. French Communist leader Maurice Thorez was disciplined for nationalist deviation for the second time a few weeks ago by the party apparatus. And in Italy, Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti is under a dense cloud of suspicion, and real power in the Italian party has been taken over by Moscow-trained Luigi Longo.

Yet in Italy and France the Communists have had actual intrinsic power in terms of a popular following. In the United States they have not had this advantage, and they have had to rely heavily on the sort of non-Communist "liberal" willing to make a common front with them. Thus it must be with real anguish that the Communists are watching the procession of left-wing intellectuals who last year joined them in supporting Wallace, and who this year are making the pilgrimage to Belgrade, either spiritually or in the flesh.

Wallace Acknowledged Danger

Wallace himself acknowledged the danger in a recent speech for Vito Marcantonio in New York's Madison Square Garden. Wallace pointed out plaintively that the Tito issue was splitting the American "progressive" movement. He implied that the wisest course was simply to shove the whole issue under the rug, and pretend that it did not exist. But this simple device is not likely to suffice.

For the Communists have no alternative but to call Tito a "facist" and a "running dog of the imperialists." And the left-wingers who are not committed to Stalinism find the whole concept of Communism independent of the unkindly men in the Kremlin almost unbearably tempting.

An incomplete list of the former Wallace supporters who have made the pilgrimage to Belgrade in the flesh includes: Louis Adamic, the author, who interviewed Tito this summer; William Gailmor, the radio commentator, a particularly fervent Wallaceite, who also interviewed Tito and came back to sing his praises; Jo Davidson, the sculptor, who did a head of Tito and subsequently announced his conversion; Kirtley Mather, the scientist, who accompanied another group of Wallaceites to Belgrade; and so on.

Add the disastrous defeat the Communists have suffered in the labor movement. Only two years ago, when the Communists were bidding for control of the United Auto Workers, they seemed in a fair way to control more than half the membership of the C. I. O. Now they will be lucky to hold onto a few small unions like Ben Gold's fur workers.

In brief, as far as their real political influence in this country is concerned, the Communists are pretty well washed up. Only one thing can restore their influence. That is to make martyrs of them and in so doing to compromise the basic principle of civil liberties. And it is worth noting that, although the ululations of the Communists tend to obscure it, a perfectly honest issue of civil liberties is involved in the matter of jailing the Communist leaders. Thus it is not surprising that some observers who are thoroughly acquainted with Communist techniques, are convinced that the defense of the Communist leaders was consciously conducted in such a way that conviction was inevitable.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Formation Of Policy

What used to be called isolationism was a policy of state, fully incorporated in American tradition since the time of George Washington. It was restated by John Quincy Adams in these terms:

". . . (the United States) well knows that by once enlisting under other banners than her own, were they even the banners of foreign independence, she would involve herself beyond the power of extrication, in all the wars of interest and intrigue, of individual avarice, envy and ambition, which assume the colors and usurp the standard of freedom. The fundamental maxims of her policy would insensibly change from liberty to force She might become the dictatress of the world. She would be no longer the ruler of her own spirit . . ."

George F. Kennan, often referred to as the brains of the State Department, undoubtedly the Mr. X, who wrote the article for "Foreign Affairs" that announced the termination of our policy of appeasing Soviet Russia, and who as director of the policy planning staff of the State Department has an important voice in long-term decisions, speaking before the Academy of Political Science, answered John Quincy Adams as of today's date, in the following terms:

". . . Today it is a grimmer type of political system which faces us across the world and with the expansion of which we are concerned. It is one directed at the vitals of our power and our faith. We can no longer be so fastidious, or so restricted geographically, in our opposition to it, as were the men in Adam's time in facing the problem of their day. There are times when we must obviously move to support the efforts of others to resist attempts made to bring them into subjection to such a political system."

Never before in American history has this country faced another with the knowledge that it had chosen the United States as its objective enemy. Even Japan, when we were most concerned about her, had chosen China and Russia, rather than the United States, as the targets of historic necessity. But now we have an enemy whose design is the ultimate destruction not so much of the United States as the American way of life. Kennan put it this way:

"For it is by this possible progressive subjection, one by one, of other peoples who live between ourselves and the seat of world communism, that our adversaries believe our world can best be undermined and we ourselves best reduced to a position of helplessness and loneliness and ignominy among the nations of mankind . . ."

It is this which has been forcing upon us, even against tradition, an intervention in the affairs of other peoples, which we are required to make good by huge expenditures of money, natural resources, and labor. This goes against our grain. Ours has been a tradition of live and let live. In our history, we have done business with republics and monarchies, with autocrats and presidents. We did not measure the virtures of our system against those of any other people. But we have also never faced the dangers of destruction before.

We give foreign aid as a planned insurance against defeat, but nobody can foretell whether the insurance is any good at all. A policy based on so many uncertainties is difficult to pursue in a country like ours, where groups identify themselves with causes, as, for instance, those who ask for aid to Franco's Spain or for Chiang Kai-Shek's China or for Israel. Kennan said:

". . . Since no two situations are alike, there is a simple lack of logic in the voices which tell us that we should have some uniform pattern of foreign aid, and demand of our government that it do some particular thing in one area just because it did something comparable somewhere else. There is nothing absolute or automatic about foreign aid. To attempt to standardize its application would not be consistency — it would be applied fallacy."

What Kennan says becomes extremely important because of the nature of his job. The war, lend-lease, Tehrehan, Yalta, the United Nations, ERP, ECA, the North Atlantic Alliance, European military aid — all form a new pattern which we need to understand because we have to live with it.

Ex-juvenile Delinquency

THE other day I picked up the telephone to call Eleanor, and it was almost half a minute before I could remember my number at home. At the time, this memory lapse didn't seem worth brooding about, but last night I happened to meet up with a well-known psychiatrist at the Stork Club, and over a jigger of ginger-beer I told him what had happened.

Billy Rose

"It was probably a mild attack of amnesia," he said. "As a rule, the victims are folks who, consciously or unconsciously, want to escape from their routine chores, and every now and then their minds blank out as a protest against doing the same old thing the same old way."

"What kind of pills should I take?"

"Fun pills," said the mind-medico. "Buy yourself a sailboat, take up skeet-shooting, or get a set of water colors and learn how to paint."

"And supposing I don't?"

"Chances are nothing will happen except that you'll forget a few more phone numbers. On the other hand, there's always the possibility that the spells may get longer and more frequent. That's what happened not long ago to a good friend of yours."

• — • — •

"What's his name?"

"I don't think he'd relish seeing it in print," said the psychiatrist. "Jerry—and I'm sure you know the Jerry I mean—used to be one of Broadway's leading juveniles and stay-up lates. Five years ago, as you know, he put away his hairoil and got a job producing radio shows. And not long after, he married the daughter of a network executive, bought a home in Scarsdale and decided to settle down.

"Well, as often happens when a girl has too much dowry, his wife did most of the settling for him. She made him exchange his friends for hers, his fun for hers and his life for hers. And within a year, the man who used to be a gay dog became all dog—a Westchester version of Caspar Milquetoast.

"After two years of being yammered at by his missus, Jerry came into see me one day and said that he was having trouble with his memory—that it was blackening out on him every now and then. I asked him some questions about his home life, and when he told me what it was like I advised him to stand up to his wife and, if necessary, slap her down occasionally. He told me, quite seriously, she wouldn't stand for such a thing.

"One morning several months later, he came to my office and told me quite a tale. It seems that on his way home the night before he had had an attack of amnesia, and when he came to fifteen hours later he was in a New York hotel room, with no idea of what had happened in between.

"I phoned his wife, and from her story, managed to put the pieces together. Jerry's memory had snapped as he got to the door of his house in Scarsdale—perhaps in protest against the stuffy people his wife had invited to dinner—and all he knew was that he was standing on a strange stoop.

"Afraid to ring the bell, he sneaked into the back yard, found an open window, hoisted himself through, then recognizing nothing, stopped to puzzle out the situation. Who was he? What sort of man would climb through the window of a strange house? Only a burglar, of course. Ergo, he must be a burglar. And so he tiptoed upstairs, entered his wife's bedroom and began stuffing her jewelry into his pockets.

"At this point, his missus walked in, told him to stop playing cops and robbers, and began badgering him at the top of her over-sized lungs. But Jerry, the burglar, instead of melting into the carpet, belted her one right in the teeth.

"That's all there was to it. Somehow, he got back to New York, checked in at a hotel, and when he woke up his amnesia was gone."

"Did you tell his wife that her husband wasn't himself when he clipped her on the chin?" I asked.

• — • — •

The psychiarist smiled. "Of course not, and what's more, I advised my patient to keep mum. Jerry went home to a big reconciliation scene—the old 'worm-turns' story — and ever since, the more spine he has shown the more supine his wife has become. I went out to his house for a poker session recently, and the only time she came in the room was when she brought in the drinks. To date, there have been no recurrences of amnesia, and it's my belief that if Jerry doesn't take any more nonsense from his wife, there won't be."

"Are you suggesting I go home and hang a shiner on Eleanor's eye?" I asked.

"In your case," said the psychiatrist, "I doubt if it's necessary. However, if you have any more trouble remembering telephone numbers, I'd suggest you invest a few dollars in a water-color set."

and France if by chance the initiative is taken by Russia and she actually has the bombs.

The best answer to this is what the scientists say—namely, that any country with the resources of fissionable material can make the bomb. Certainly Russia is not likely to become truly bellicose until she has enough bombs to checkmate America's use of the bomb. When that happens, if a war breaks out it might be fought very much as the last one was fought—with air-power in both the Army and Navy and with land forces in Western Europe.

ENSIGN AND MRS. ROBERT WALTERS

Diana Moomaw Is Bride Of Ensign Robert Walters

Bride's Cousin Officiates

The Presbyterian Church, Petersburg, W. Va., was the scene of the marriage of Miss Diana Frances Moomaw, daughter of Mrs. Lula Judy Moomaw, and the late Dr. Glenn Moomaw, Petersburg, to Ensign Robert Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Walters, Oblong, Ill., November 12. The ceremony was solemnized at 4 p. m., with Rev. John W. Duckwall, Virginia, cousin of the bride, officiating.

Miss Margaret Moomaw was her cousin's maid of honor; and Miss Nancy Bond, Montgomery, W. Va., and Miss Susan Walder, Maidens, Va., were bridesmaids; little Nancy Walters, was flower girl. Philip Walters, Wilmington, Del., was his brother's best man and George Moomaw and Ensign Lee Pyles, Fairmont, W. Va., were ushers.

The altar was decorated with white chrysanthemums, ferns and tall white candles. Mrs. J. M. Reid played a program of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her cousin, William Moomaw, Petersburg, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin and chantilly lace, with a cathedral train falling from an empire waistline. She carried white roses and her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom.

Her attendants all wore slipper satin gowns with portrait neckline, sheared bertha and ruffled hoop skirt. They carried old fashioned bouquets of yellow pompons. The maid of honor was in green, the bridesmaids, gold, and the flower girl, American beauty.

Mrs. Moomaw chose a dress of navy blue with which she wore a wine-colored hat and accessories, a mink neckpiece and gardenia corsage. Mrs. Walters selected a sky blue silk crepe with tan feather hat, tan accessories and gardenia corsage.

The bride, a Petersburg High School graduate, attended Hood College, Frederick, and graduated from West Virginia University in 1948, where she was a member of Chi Omega. The bridegroom graduated from Oblong, Ill., High School, attended Naval Prep School, Bainbridge, and is a 1949 graduate of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis. He is stationed on the USS Missouri at Portsmouth, Va.

A reception was held at the Hermitage Hotel dining room which was elaborately decorated with fall flowers. The wedding cake and tapers centered the table. Miss Katie Moomaw and Miss Cornelia Baker presided at the punch bowls.

For their trip the couple drove to White Sulphur Springs and the South and will be at home after Thanksgiving in Portsmouth. The bride's traveling suit was blue tweed with matching accessories and she wore a gardenia corsage.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Walters, Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Spangler, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sundin, Miss Judy Fessingden, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bond, Montgomery; Miss Mildred Burtin, Annapolis; Mr. and Mrs. David King, Clarksburg; Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hook, Doe Hill, Va., Miss Margaret Millar, Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baker, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Moomaw, Mr. and Mrs. Warden Hott, John MsNeil, Clyde and Judy Ours, Donald Baker, Moorefield, W. Va., and William McCoy, Jr., Franklin, W. Va.

Piney Plains PTA Plans Supper

Dates of meetings of the Piney Plains PTA were changed at the meeting Friday at the school. Mrs. J. C. Smith presided and it was decided to meet the second Tuesday of the month instead of the second Friday, beginning in December. A Christmas program will be held December 16.

The association also planned an oyster and chicken dinner to be held December 3 from 5:30 until 8:30 at the school. The purpose is to raise funds to purchase equipment for the school.

An Armistice program was presented by the pupils under the direction of the teachers. Mrs. A. R. Shaffer was Program chairman. Depicting the story of World War I, the pupils sang songs of the time, including "Over There" and "Goodby Broadway, Hello France." A tableau was presented by a boy representing the Army, one the Navy and one a civilian carrying the flag. For World War II the program showed the organization of the United Nations, Security Council and various groups operating today to prevent a third war. Shields and flags of the Allies decorated the room.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served.

A turkey supper will be served by the Bedford Road Firemen's Auxiliary at 5:30 tonight at the fire hall.

CHINESE AMBASSADOR WELLINGTON KOO getting congrats for his article in this month's Reader's Digest. For the Digest's world-wide circulation it'll be translated into dozens of different languages, including Chinese . . . The petal frail MADAME KOO getting compliments, too. For her necklace of rubies, jade and pearls, made like a garland of exquisite flowers. Painstakingly designed by MADAME KOO. If the ambassadorial couple should ever find themselves on the list of unemployed (a possibility though I sincerely hope a remote one for the present) she could turn professional jewelry creator. She has that knowledge of color, that feeling for the subtle line and the graceful movement possessed so often by Oriental women of culture.

EVELYN TYNER, well-known pianist, freezing with horror the other evening! There was fingernail polish on her right thumb! She had forgotten when she had a manicure that if she has two coats of polish on her thumb nail she can't play her glissandos. So she frantically dispatched a messenger for some polish remover. Got the polish off and herself "on" just in time.

Unassuming, unclothes-conscious MADAME ELATH, Ambassadress from Israel, taking up sculpturing in spare time at American university. "I'm working on a figure of a ballerina. I'm a beginner and love it! It's better than my former pastime, painting."

A recently arrived diplomat's wife, recovering from a mysterious malady . . . "It's not beriberi but it is beri-bad" punned her husband . . . Seems, instead of dissolving one of those hair-curling capsules in a glass of water and setting her hair with the solution, the foreign lady ate the capsules and drank a glass of water.

It did make her toes curl though, so she can't beri well get her money back.

Wise is the under - twentier who always tries to look her never-to-be repeated age even when dressed for the most formal of parties.

There's no need for her to look like older sister or a baby at a piano recital in an evening dress if she takes a quick look around.

White is for the young, especially white with a dreamy pastel satin sash.

For instance, there's cloudy white nylon tulle with a chemise top, straight from the immortal twenties. The pink sash that outlines a tiny waist is pure late Victorian, but who are we to quibble when the result is so pretty?

Add two very dainty and very young touches — tiny white satin gloves and a white lace fan. Wear them, 'teenagers and be grateful for your youth.

Schiaparelli's variation on the same theme is for the girl who likes to be a little different. Yards and yards of crisp white organdy flows into a skirt belted with Schiaparelli's shocking pink cotton sash.

The real feature about this dress is the bodice made of layer upon layer of organdy petals. Smooth bare shoulders rise from the top as if from white-capped waves.

Short and inexpensive is a not-quite-so-formal pink cotton dress. White net flows over the skirt reminiscent of whipped cream on a strawberry soda.

Another confection mixes white tulle, ostrich feathers and silver kid belt into a mixture as young as you feel on a dance floor.

In fact, the debutante-age should feel very smug. Designers have done much better by them this year than they have by many of their elders.

The surrender to the state of all services to the needy is the surrender of moral and spiritual responsibility to the state. No bureaucracy can create or sustain a system of morals or the inspirations of a spiritual life.
—Dr. James R. Killian, president of the Masachusetts Institute of Technology.

The Wisconsin city of Racine (meaning "root" in French) was so named because of the great number of roots in the nearby river.

Every movement of "Dance through a Week to Beauty" firms your body, whittles its lines!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

IT's an axiom of models and actresses that you must feel beautiful to look beautiful.

Awkwardness immediately routes any feeling of beauty, of course. That's why I make sure that every Powers model learns to have control over her every movement. She must be graceful, fluid and natural at all times. This self-confidence subtly changes her whole appearance, even her facial expression.

I know of no easier, more delightful, no surer way to attain these important qualities than through dancing. And so in our Powers laboratory of charm, we have developed a routine especially for you. Every woman can increase her atractiveness faster than she ever thought possible, if she will "Dance through a Week to Beauty." There are just six steps, one to be learned each day . . . and by the end of a week, you will be trimmer, slimmer, surer, limberer . . . and proud of yourself!

Today's Step

You "Dance through a Week to Beauty" in three-part time. So start humming your favorite waltz now and I'll show you the third step. (If you missed the first two, watch for news of how to get them later this week.)

With feet together, arms at your side, you are ready to start.

A. Point your right toe as far to the right as you can. Then slide your right foot sidewise to the right. Bend your right knee until it is in a position directly over your foot. Keep your left leg straight and your toe pointed forward.

As you take this step, raise your right arm sideways to shoulder level palm up and swing your left arm across your body as if you were reaching for your left hand. Let your torso swing right with the momentum of your arms.

B. Swing your left arm back at shoulder level, until it is completely outstretched to the left, palm up. Let your body swing left with this movement as your gradually straighten out your left leg. (Do not move it out of position.) Keep your right arm flung out to the right.

While You Keep Humming

C. Return to position A.

D. Repeat A, three times; B, twice.

E. Bring your feet together as you fling your left arm to shoulder level at your left side the fourth time. Your right arm remains in position at shoulder level on your right side.

F. Now, lunge to the left as you swing your right arm across to meet your left to reverse the movement of A and B.

G. Repeat three times and finish with your feet together, both arms flung out, shoulder level to your sides.

Mastering today's movement will give you greatly increased flexibility in your arms and torso, but perhaps you'll prize it most highly because it's a real waist whittler, too. Be sure to get tomorrow's step! It's a sure way to tighten abdominal muscles, limber legs, whittle and willow arms while you improve your grace and enjoy dancing!

A BANK IS KNOWN BY THE CUSTOMERS IT KEEPS

You have often heard it said that "a person is known by the company he keeps." This same general idea can be extended to other things besides persons. For example, we might say that a bank is known by the customers it keeps. Certainly, the First National Bank is glad to be judged by the customers it continues to satisfy, year after year.

This bank is honored by every new customer who chooses to open an account with it. At the same time, it is particularly proud of the large number of customers it has had the pleasure of serving for long periods of years. As Cumberland's oldest national bank, its reputation for sound banking and consistent service is reflected in the years of association it has had with so many local businesses and individuals.

In other words, the First National Bank is naturally proud "of the customers it keeps".

More Or Less Socialism Top Issue In Australia, New Zealand Balloting

By GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY, Nov. 15 (AP)—Two big general elections will be held in these parts in the next few weeks.

They may climax the political battle in Australia and New Zealand between labor and the rest of the opposition parties.

Labor wants to push ahead with socialism. Opponents of labor point to Britain as a horrible example of rushed socialism. They seek to check the flood of free social benefits and the trend towards more nationalization and controls.

New Zealand will vote in a new Parliament November 30. Ten days later, on December 10, five million Australians will pick their next parliament.

A general election is held once every three years in both these British dominions.

In both countries the outgoing parliaments have been controlled by the Labor Party. Both labor governments have pushed social welfare benefits and nationalization.

Electors of both countries now are asking themselves:

Do we want more government handouts, with high taxes to pay for them?

Will the opposition give us the same high standard of living we have had under labor?

Do we want the government to run more industries instead of private enterprise?

Will the opposition be able to keep up the present full employment? or will there be fewer jobs with longer working hours and maybe less pay?

Which party will be able to cut living costs and not cut wages?

Which will build the most houses and apartments?

There are a few side issues; but it is what the candidates say about socialism and living costs that will win votes.

Candidates are directing their campaign at the middle class "swing" voters. These are the people who vote either way, and really decide who will govern.

These groups in Australia and New Zealand are not large. They comprise mainly small farmers and tradesmen, clerks and some other white collar workers.

All signs indicate that the elections are going to be close in both countries.

Labor perhaps is a little more likely to lose in New Zealand parliament. Four of these are the Maoris, the original New Zealanders. Labor-supporting Maoris usually are returned.

There are four labor Maoris in the retiring parliament. Their support has kept Prime Minister Peter Fraser in power.

The Labor and Nationalist Parties each have 38 seats.

Labor Maoris likely will win four seats again this election. That means the Nationalists have to win three of the "European" labor seats to gain power.

Labor has a bigger margin in Australia. Official labor had 43 of the 74 sets in the last parliament. The Liberals had 17 seats, the Country Party 12, and Independent Labor two.

The Liberal and Country Parties work as a united opposition to Labor in the federal parliament.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Depression stories bring to mind the one about the family of four brothers. Three were spectacularly successful Wall Street operators, the fourth was an amiable cuss who had just about enough sense to sit down when he was tired. The three shining lights took care of their less gifted brother. Every time one of them bought ten thousand shares of stock, he'd add a couple of hundred in the name of the lame duck.

In July, 1929, the fourth brother fell ill and was told by the doctor that he was the victim of an incurable disease, and couldn't live another 10 months. He sold every share of stock he owned for about a million in cash, put his affairs in order, and prepared to have as much fun as possible in the little time he had left. Of course, the three geniuses were wiped out completely in October. And the lame duck's disease wasn't incurable after all. He's living on top of the world today, and the three brothers are working for him.

Jurors Checked In Perjury Trial Of Harry Bridges

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15 (INS) —Both sides probed the associations of prospective jurors today in the Harry Bridges perjury and conspiracy trial to determine if union feuds smoldering in the background would influence their verdicts.

The intensive questioning faced by veniremen emphasized the problems faced in finding an impartial jury to hear the government's charge that the CIO Longshore boss perjured himself when he swore under oath he had never been a Communist.

Tension in the ornately decorated federal court room in San Francisco where Bridges and two of his aides are on trial heightened when one venireman testified he was a member of the AFL Warehousemen's Union.

The organization is a bitter rival of Bridges' International Longshoremen and Warehousemen.

The venireman, Robart L. Coffman, also testified that a son-in-law was a member of the AFL Sailors Union of the Pacific.

Coffman's admissions caused Defense Attorney Vincent Hallinan to cite once more the names of two powerful AFL chieftains, both bitter foes of the 48-year-old Australian-born labor leader on trial.

They were Harry Lundeberg, president of the seamen, and Dave Beck, whose AFL teamsters chartered the warehousemen.

Yesterday, Hallinan was rebuked by Federal Judge George B. Harris when the attorney charged Beck and Lundeberg were "guilty of atrocious conduct bearing on this case."

Coffman, however, insisted that his union relationships would not affect his judgement and he was tentatively seated. Three veniermen have been excused for cause but neither side has used any of its peremptory challenges as yet. The defense is allowed 10 and the prosecution six.

BEST FRIEND MISSING — One-year-old Lynn Quail lets the world know that her trip to Bermuda has been spoiled — her favorite doll is missing. The doll was left at home.

Errol Flynn, Veteran Actor, Engaged To Princess Ghica

LONDON, Nov. 15 (INS) — Dashing Errol Flynn, veteran of many Hollywood love stories on and off the screen, announced his engagement tonight to teen-aged Princess Irene Ghica, exiled descendant of a family that founded modern Romania.

The announcement, made by the 40-year-old Flynn in London, was confirmed soon after in Paris by his 19-year-old prospective bride.

The blond, slim Irene, a divorcee, received an International News Service correspondent in her modest apartment in Paris as she prepared to fly tomorrow to meet Flynn in London. She was gracious about everything except her title.

"Don't call me princess," she said petulantly, "I hate it."

Irene was wearing a simple yellow lemon sweater and grey wrap-around flannel skirt split in back with three small buttons.

She said she met the twice-married Flynn six months ago at a "private party," but when she was asked whether it was "love at first sight" she looked startled

Her last-minute packing was causing her some concern because, she said: "Mr. Flynn just cabled 'bring a dozen snails' and the airport officials are going to think I'm a smuggler.

Costello In Liquor

menced business. Carillo's override or commission on sales was taken from him and given to Philip Kastel, a business partner and lieutenant of Frank Costello. Kastel maintained headquarters at the office of Alliance Distributors and Frank Costello was a frequent visitor. Costello represented himself as general sales manager of Alliance, and gave Irving Haim, president of the corporation, as a reference.

$425,000 Purchase Price

"In September, 1937, Irving Haim while in Europe contracted to purchase the Whiteley distilleries by purchasing all of the stock of J. G. Turney & Son, Ltd., holding company for Whiteley. From that time the distilleries have been entirely owned and controlled by the American purchasers. The purchase price was approximately $425,000. The financing was arranged in New Orleans, La., on notes endorsed by Haim, Kastel, Costello and William Helis as follows:

$100,000 was obtained by the discounting of a series of four notes endorsed by Philip Kastel, Irving Haim and Frank Costello . . . $225,000 was obtained by a note endorsed by Irving Haim and William Helis . . . $75,000 was obtained by discounting a series of eight promissory notes endorsed by Haim and Kastel . . . an additional amount was invested by one Edward Friedberg.

"From that time to the present (September 23, 1949) William Helis has had a proprietary interest in Whiteley's distilleries. Kastel and Costello continued their connection with Whiteley's (Ed. note: Helis has since said he gave his interests to his children.)

"Kastel continued to receive his commission or override of 2½ shillings per case and in 1938 a resolution introduced by Haim was passed at a directors meeting of the Whiteley Holding Corporation, J. G. Turney and Son, Ltd., that Frank Costello, having spent a great deal of time and money promoting Whiteley's brands in the United States, be appointed the company's agent in the United States, and that he be paid 5,000 pounds per annum plus five shillings for every case over 50,000 cases per annum shipped to the United States.

Grand Jury Probe

"In 1940 a grand judy investigation was conducted by the district attorney of New York County, N. Y., which touched up on some phases of the Whiteley transaction. On June 28, 1940, Kastel and Costello signed an agreement purporting to relinquish any claims or demands they might have had in J. G. Turney and Son ,Ltd., the Whiteley holding company.

"Subsequent to the refusal of the New York State Liquor Authority to renew the wholesale license of International Distributors, a proceeding was brought by the latter company in Supreme Court, New York County, to review the action of the authority. The court confirmed the determination of the authority, and an appeal subsequently taken was discontinued by International Distributors on the merits, by stipulation.

"Attached hereto are photostatic copies of the notes endorsed by Kastel, Costello and Haim, and the resolution passed by J. G. Turney and Son, Ltd., appointing Frank Costello as sales agent for the United States."

Costello's "interest" in the fabulous Flamingo Hotel, at Las Vegas, Nev., where gambing is legalized, is touched upon by a Chicago Crime Commission report to the office of New Orleans Mayor Morrison, dated September 15, 1949:

". . . There is good reason to believe that much of Frank Costello's money went in the hotel. The individuals who poured in most of the money are known to be associates of Frank Costello."

Contributor To 66 Charities

Before his murder, Siegel said he had gone broke trying to complete the sumptuous place, and Webb told the writer that it was not a contractor's business to make a loyalty test of those who hire him to erect a structure. The value of the place has been listed as $6,000,000. It's a super layout.

Costello's friends insist that he has become a whipping boy or successive crops of politicians; that he operates entirely within the law and that the sins against him far outweigh those he committed.

They point out that he seldom, if ever, mentions his legitimate business associates for fear of embarrassing them, and that he is (and has been) an anonymous contributor to at least 66 charities of all denominations. If he is America's No. 1 mobster, they ask, why didn't Tom Dewey nail him? Or Frank Hogan? Or the FBI? They all tried and failed.

Drew Pearson, who did his share of kicking Costello around, once wrote, "The list of some of Costello's contributions to charities reads like a 'who's who of America's needy."

A story from Rome in May, 1948, told of Costello's contributions to Italy's fight against Communism before the critical elections of that year. It quoted Roman Catholic Bishop Raffaele Barbieri of Cassano Ionio, who publicly thanked Costello "for the previous help you sent in providing for the children of Lauropoli the necessary elementary school books."

Congress Advised To Hold Door Open To Competition

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — Congress was advised today that the United States must hold open the door to "greater competition" from made-in-Europe goods in the American market.

President Truman sent the fifth report of the Economic Cooperation Administration to Capitol Hill without comment of his own.

The Marshall Plan nations must put lower price tags on their export goods to attract American consumers and thereby earn the dollars essential to recovery, the ECA report said. It went on:

"The United States, of course, must be willing to accept greater competition from European suppliers in order to help Europe pay its way."

The line — an obvious warning against trigger-action tariff increases to protect domestic industries — was coupled with an estimate that foreseeable European competition would have a minor impact on U. S. producers.

Even if Europe was able to double its sales in America, the report said, the volume would represent less than one per cent of this country's total outlays for goods and services and would "only be scratching the surface of the American market."

The Marshall Plan countries, even though increasing their production, were reported to have lost ground in cutting their "overall trade deficit" with the United States. The gap widened from $700,000,000 in the last quarter of 1948 to $1,100,000,000 in second-quarter 1949, ECA said, as Europe imported more American goods and shipped less in this direction.

66-Year Old

The curly - haired first - grader, Linda, daughter of Jules Glucoft, 36-year-old commercial artist, and his wife, Lillian, 33, vanished just before dinner last night. Shortly after dawn today, climaxing an all-night hunt, two homicide detectives found her body, wedged in a pile of boxes and wrapped in a brightly colored Indian blanket.

Nearby was a bloodstained axe. Her panties, and an eight-inch butcher knife were in an incinerator. Empty whisky and wine bottles lay on the ground.

Brennan said the blanket came from the home of Mrs. Ruben Hausman, mother of a playmate of Linda's. A police broadcast ordered the arrest, on suspicion of murder, of Mrs. Hausman's father, Fred Stroble, who had been living with her. The broadcast said in part: "Suspect is believed to have murdered Linda Joyce Glucoft, 6 years, this city."

FBI 'Planted Phoney' Memos For Coplon Girl

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — An FBI man told today of planting a phony "secret" memo, designed to fool Soviet Agents if it fell into their hands, in a Justice Department office where Judith Coplon would have access to it.

But Agent Robert J. Lamphere said he had no reason to believe that Miss Coplon, convicted on one spy charge and facing trial on another, ever took any information from the memo and sent it to the Russians.

Lamphere was one of a series of FBI witnesses called in a Federal Court hearing by which Miss Coplon's lawyer is trying to prevent her being tried for conspiracy to spy with Soviet Engineer Valentin Gubitchev.

The lawyer, Archibald Palmer, said his slight brunette client was a conscientious government worker who "dug out various subversive organizations" while working for the Department of Justice.

Lamphere said the planted document was signed "J. H." — the initials of J. Edgar Hoover—and contained a reference to a device known as a "geophone," an instrument for measuring the intensity of blasts.

The agent said he prepared it, getting some of his information from the Atomic Energy Commission, last January 7 at a time when the FBI was closely watching Miss Coplon because of New York meetings with Gubitchev.

Palmer, questioning various witnesses, sought to show that these meetings were not dictated by spy plotting but by the romantic feelings Miss Coplon said she had for Gubitchev until she learned he was married.

Barton Favors County Public Housing Plan

A resolution from the town of Barton favoring the formation of a Public Housing Authority in Allegany County is scheduled to be in the hands of the county Board of Commissioners before November 18.

Barton Mayor Arthur B. Hoffa informed the board yesterday of the town's approval of the housing proposal.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert said a majority of the other towns in the county are in favor of the measure. Officials of Frostburg, Lonaconing, Westernport and Luke have been contacted by the commissioners and expressed interest in the program.

A three-member Public Housing Authority will be named and the membership probably will be from the incorporated towns outside of Cumberland as this city already has a housing group.

Final action on naming the board probably will be made next week.

Members of the board said that the public housing program ties in with the program of the proposed Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary District. The latter program will delve into the matter of providing water supplies for various towns.

Naming of the sanitary district commission is expected to be done soon.

Hoffa also informed the board that something should be done to repair Seldom Seen Road which runs from the main highway into Detmold.

The board accepted the George Construction Company's bid of $7,957 for building an addition to the county garage on Franklin Street. The Wright - Richardson Company was the only other bidder at $8,000.

Plans and specifications call for the erection of the walls and roof, but there are several features left out which the county hopes to add next winter. At present, only $10,000 is available for the work, board members said.

The Wright-Richardson Company was awarded the contract to remodel a room at the Union Street County Building at a cost of $1,111. The rooms will be partitioned into three units for use by the Juvenile Court. The present quarters in the Court House are inadequate for the number of cases being tried.

Failure of Bruce Wilson to include a certified $100 check as a performance bond with his bid of $906.40 lost him the contract.

Leonard's, Inc., this city, was the only bidder to provide an ice-making machine for use of the County Infirmary. A bid of $2,000 for a machine to make 2,000 pounds of ice flakes a day was accepted.

GIVE UP "GOOD" WOLF — Still too young to be a "big bad wolf," a 70-pound cub is bid goodbye by Rose Fisher, 3, and her brother, Peter, 1½, in the wolf den at Detroit's Bell Isle Children's Zoo. Their father presented the eight-months-old pet, "Jackie," to the zoo because he feared she might discover she is a wolf and act accordingly. He found her last June.

Republican Faction Makes Peace Terms

The possibility of the candidacy of Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg, for governor remains unknown as two factions of the Republican party made peace at a luncheon Monday in Baltimore.

Rep. Beall is reported to have the backing of the group headed by Jacob France, Republican national committeeman. Thus far Beall, who is serving his fourth term in the U. S. House of Representatives, has made no statement on his intentions for next year.

The truce involves the groups headed by France and Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, former mayor of Baltimore, and two-time candidate for governor.

Stanley Scherr, close ally of France, said the feud was patched up at a luncheon when he met with France and McKeldin. He added there was no talk at the luncheon about Republican candidates for governor next year.

McKeldin, who left Baltimore shortly after the luncheon and was not available for comment, is one of those frequently mentioned for the race.

The France organization had been working for the nomination of William C. Purnell, Baltimore attorney and commanding officer of Maryland National Guard units in the 29th Division.

Purnell let it be known recently that he is not a candidate for governor.

Constable Patient In Local Hospital

Branson J. Nelson, constable of Trial Magistrates Court, was admitted to Allegany Hospital Monday suffering from asthma.

Attaches said Nelson was placed in an oxygen tent for a short time last night to relieve breathing difficulties. He was reported in fair condition.

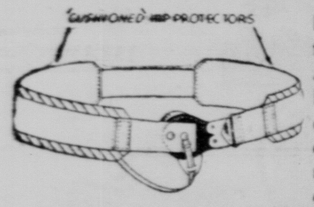

Roy E. Van Fleet, 721 LaFayette Avenue, was sworn in yesterday as temporary constable during Nelson's son's absence. He posted $2,000 bond.

Browns Retain Zack Taylor To Manage Team Next Year

Zack Taylor

Three 1949 Coaches Sign One-Year Contracts; Earle Brucker, Formerly Of A's, Joins Staff

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 15 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns announced today that Zack Taylor will be retained as manager of the club next year.

At the same time owners of the club disclosed that Earle Brucker, recently released by the Philadelphia Athletics as a coach, has been signed by the Browns. He will be in charge of the bullpen.

President Bill DeWitt of the Browns said the announcement on Taylor's status was delayed "by the fact that we wanted the entire field personnel to be lined up simultaneously."

Coaches Johnny Tobin, Ralph Winegarner and Fred Hoffman, with the club last year, also were signed to one-year contracts.

"After giving considerable thought to the matter during the past several weeks," DeWitt said, "we have come to the conclusion that Zack Taylor is the logical man to manage the Browns in 1950.

"Zack has been a successful manager in our organization for many years and has proven he can develop and handle young players."

The Browns finshed seventh last year under Taylor.

He was acting manager of the club for a brief period in 1946 after Luke Sewell was released as manager. After a year as a coach with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1947, Taylor was signed as manager by the Browns.

He previously had served as a coach with the Browns.

Basilio Plays With Unbeaten Tech In Keyser

Cumberlander Among Four Former Cats

When the Potomac State Catamounts meet West Virginia Tech in their last football game of the season in Keyser on Saturday they will have the unpleasant experience of playing against four of their former teammates.

This is nothing new for the Catamounts but in this case they would much rather have these particular boys for them than against them.

Coach Dana Lough remarked yesterday that he felt that a great deal of the success of the undefeated Tech team is due to the play of the Potomac State stars. They are Ralph Basilio, of Cumberland; Neal Baisi, Elkins, W. Va.; Andy Starrett and Brooks Harris of Weston.

Basilio From Cumberland

Basilio was one of the dependable guards at State in 1946-47 when the Cats were going so well and were considered especially strong in their linep lay. He plays a guard position with the Blue and Gold.

Baisi played at Keyser at the same time and was selected by most of the Catamount opponents as an all-conference guard. Baisi was also also used some while at State as a blocking back and occasionally as defensive end.

Starrett, 220 pound tackle, was one of the strongest and roughest tackles ever to play at State. In 1946 it was Starrett who almost single-handed stopped the offense of the Tech team in the opener which the Cats won, 7-0. It seems that Tech decided that if they could not beat Starrett that they would join him and he has been a main cog in their line this season.

Harris Tips 185 Now

Harris will always be remembered at Potomac State as the back who ran with such reckless disregard for his own safety and would always fight for the extra inches. He tipped 160 pounds when he played at State but now weighs 185 and runs with the same speed and drive.

In commenting on the four players, Lough said he could understand why Tech wanted them, and if they have others equally as good he can understand why the Montgomery eleven is undefeated to date.

Potomac lost only three games and only one was in the conference while those boys were playing at the Keyser school. During those two years the Catamounts beat Tech twice.

Saturday's game at Stayman Field is set for 2 p. m.

Blaine Morton, AHS Halfback Is Voted Player Of The Week

Starred In Elkins Game; Becomes Ninth Honored With Award

Blaine Morton, Allegany High School halfback, whose all-around playing was one of the highlights of last Friday's game here between the Campers and the Elkins High School Tigers, has been named as the "Player of the Week" by the selection committee of Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, donor of the weekly and annual awards for players of Greater Cumberland schools.

Morton, a senior, thrilled AHS followers on Friday night by turning in a 53-yard touchdown run, set up another score by racing 39 yards, caught a pass thrown by Ronnie Sisk for an 18-yard gain and played an outstanding defensive game. He was also the leading ground gainer as the Campers marked up their ninth consecutive win of the season.

Four players who appeared in the Ridgeley - LaSalle game Saturday night also were considered for the "Player of the Week" award. They were Jimmie Moran, who scored two touchdowns in the final period to give the Explorers a 25-13 win; Bob Arnone, also of LaSalle; Gene Krampf, end, and Earl, Long, center, of Ridgeley.

Morton is the third AHS player to be honored this season. The other Campers named were Tom Oglebay and Gordon Swan. Fort Hill's winners have been Don Decker, Roy Manges and Pat Murphy. Bob McGreevy and Phil Sonner, LaSalle and Gene Krampf, Ridgeley, increases the number to nine. Five of the gridders selected are linemen.

All of the players named will receive sweaters from the K. of C. and become nominees for the "Player of the Year" award — a wrist watch.

Before the season is concluded "Players of the Week" will be selected from last night's Hagerstown-Fort Hill game and the AHS-Fort Hill contest on Thanksgiving Day.

COPS AWARD—Blaine Morton, Allegany High School halfback, has been named "Player of the Week" by the K. of C. selection committee for his brilliant performance in the AHS-Elkins game here last Friday night. He is the 9th player honored this season and the third from the Campobello school. He will receive a sweater and will be eligible to vie for the Player of the Year prize.

Club Recreation Takes Over Lead In County Loop

Juniors Take Tumble, Bender Sets Record

Club Recreation has displaced the Club Juniors as leader of the Allegany County Bowling League as a result of Sunday's contest in which the current pace setters won two out of three games.

Earlier in the week the Club Juniors lost ground by losing two games to the Roxy while the Recreation pinmen were sweeping three from the Lonaconing Republican Club.

In Sunday's match the Juniors lost two games but spilled more pins, toppling 2454 to the winners' 2,440. Walter Cox paced the Recreation team with a 238-583 while Eddie McKay's 227-571 was high for the Juniors.

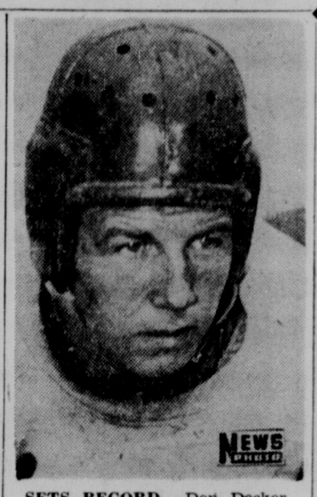

A new record for a three-game set was hung up by John Bender in the Recreation-'Coney match. He spilled 659 pins to better the mark of 653 hung up by "Bud" McClellan the day the latter rolled his 300 in a single game. Bender attained his record with single games of 216, 203 and 240.

Paul Smith's 212-541 led Roxy to victory over the Club Juniors. Paul Stakem's 202-566 was tops for the losers.

Goodfellowship Club took three games from Keyser, the Devon Club made it two out of three from Maple Lanes and Frostburg Majestics registered a 2-1 win over the Lonaconing A. & P.

High scores included Willis, Keyser, 222-555; J. Reitmeier, Goodfellowship, 424; Grove, Devon Club, 203-507; Kelley, Maple Lanes, 480; F. Scarpelli, Frostburg, 223-567 and A. Steele, Lonaconing A. & P. 500. The standings:

SETS RECORD — Don Decker, place-kicking specialist of Fort Hill High School, established a new city record last night at the stadium when he converted five of seven tries for extra point and increased his season's total to 35 as the Sentinels crushed Hagerstown 47-0. Glen Burke of Fort Hill set the previous record last year when he booted 34 points after touchdowns. Decker has connected 35 times in 49 tries this season with one more game yet to be played. By scoring 47 points, Fort Hill came within eight points of tying the all-time city record of 339 set by Allegany in 10 games last year. Coach Hahn's team has scored 31 points in nine games and closes the season with undefeated AHS on Thanksgiving Day.

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

The Fort Hill football juggernaut rolled irresistibly once more last night as the Scarlet and White eleven flattened Hagerstown High's Maroon and Grey to the tune of 47-0 at Fort Hill stadium in the final game of the season here before Thanksgiving Day.

The visiting Hub City team was never in the ball game from the first 10 seconds of play when Fort Hill scored its first touchdown until the final whistle.

A crowd of approximately 2,500 fans saw the Sentinels' Don Decker, place-kicking specialist, add five perfect placements after touchdowns in seven tries to break the former record of 34 held by Glen Burke, all-city end of last season's unbeaten Fort Hill team. Decker has now kicked 35 extra points in 49 tries and has the annual Turkey Day contest with Allegany to play.

Wageley Scores Thrice

In addition Charles "Pete" Wageley, hard-plunging fullback of the Sentinels tallied three touchdowns and once more took a temporary lead in the battle for city scoring honors. Wageley now has scored 78 points on 13 six-pointers. Donny Lease of Allegany is second with 75.

The fray marked the fifth time this season Fort Hill has scored 40 or more points in a game and was the seventh straight victory for the high-flying Hilltoppers. All told Coach Bill Hahn's charges have won eight of nine games this year.

With 331 points already under their belts the Sentinels need eight more to equal Allegany's record 339 points for a team in a season racked up last year.

A rock-ribbed Fort Hill forward wall stopped the Hagerstown attack cold and the visitors couldn't get a first down by rushing or passing until midway in the fourth period. All told the Hubs had only four firsts with the initial one coming in the second period on two consecutive 5-yard penalties charged against Fort Hill.

Ridgeley Punting Star

The only bright spot in the picture for visiting coach Mel Henry was the punting of Pete Ridgely, Hagerstown fullback. Ridgeley booted the ball five times for an average kick of 35.2 yards and had one kick travel 42 yards through the air from the line of scrimmage.

The Hahnmen scored in the first 10 seconds of play when Eddie Landis recovered a Hagerstown fumble on the Hub City 5 after the opening kickoff. Landis lugged the oval over for the score on Fort Hill's first running play of the game.

In addition to Wageley and Landis, Donald Glenn, Dewey Lewis and George Schoenadel tallied six-pointers for the winners.

Wageley's three scores came on a 30-yard pass from Quarterback Lynn Beightol, and two four-yard plunges into the line. Schoenadel, the Sentinels' glue-fingered end tallied on the receiving end of a 20-yard Beightol aerial.

Beightol Runs 25 yards

Beightol made the game's longest run, a 25-yard sprint on a quarterback-keep in the third stanza.

Besides scoring three touchdowns Wageley also picked up 52 yards in nine running plays for an average of 5.78 yards per carry. Eddie Landis gained 36 yards in seven carries and Roy Manges romped for 59 yards in eight plays for the best average of 7.37 per carry.

Beightol, Manges, Wageley, Landis, Glenn, Decker, Schoenadel and Pat Murphy played outstanding games for the victors.

Ralph Long, right guard of Hagerstown, was by far the best lineman on the field, making better than 50 percent of the losers' tackles and playing outstanding ball throughout. Henry Hendel, left end, John Ramer, left half and Pete Ridgely, fullback, were the other stars for Hagerstown.

The lineups:

Pos.	Fort Hill (47)	Hagerstown (0)

Army Drops To 4th, Maryland Is Above Cornell, Spartans

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Notre Dame, Oklahoma, California and Army continued to be the only "regulars" in college football's first ten.

The seventh weekly Associated Press poll is out today and this fearsome foursome is at the top again—the only teams that have ranked every week of the season.

For the first time in weeks, though, there's a change even in their order with Oklahoma and California moving ahead of Army, which lost the grip it has held on second place since Oct. 10.

Army Loses Favor

The Black Knights of the Hudson lost favor in their narrow escape at Philadelphia last Saturday when they squeezed past Penn, 14-13. They fell to fourth.

Notre Dame's Irish, who haven't been threatened in first place since the second week, solidified their position by subduing North Carolina with a strong last half spurt, 43-6.

Frank Leahy's marvels received 140 first place ballots from the 162 sports writers and broadcasters who participated. They rolled up 1,592 points.

Bowl-bound Oklahoma, 27-7 winner over Missouri, gained 15 first place votes to finish second with 1,298 points. Third place California got five of the other No. 1 designations with Army and Virginia receiving one each.

Michigan, the 1948 national champion, clung to fifth place, being followed, in order, by Rice, Ohio State, Minnesota, Virginia and Southern Methodist.

Ohio State Moves Up

Ohio State and Southern Methodist are newcomers to the first ten this week, replacing Cornell, which had its perfect record spoiled by Dartmouth, 16-7, and Michigan State, which bowed to Oregon State 25-20.

It's the first time up for Ohio State, which has been hovering close, in 11th position four of the previous six weeks. SMU ranked ninth twice and tenth once before.

Oklahoma and California face stern challenges this week. The Sooners meet a Santa Clara team that has been beaten only by California. The Bears oppose Stanford.

Michigan plays Ohio State at Ann Arbor, Mich., in the only game involving two members of the top ten. The tilt may decide the Big Ten championship.

Rice plays Texas Christian, Minnesota faces Wisconsin, Virginia meets Tulane and Southern Methodist goes against Baylor.

The total vote with points figured on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis (first place votes in parentheses):

1.	Notre Dame (140)	1,592
2.	Oklahoma (15)	1,298
3.	California (5)	1,252
4.	Army (1)	1,130
5.	Michigan	768
6.	Rice	566
7.	Ohio State	486
8.	Minnesota	428
9.	Virginia (1)	276
10.	Southern Methodist	194

The Second Ten—11. Kentucky, 150; 12. Stanford, 105; 13. Louisiana State, 87; 14. Dartmouth, 75; 15. Baylor, 64; 16. Maryland, 52; 17. Cornell, 49; 18. Michigan State, 46; 19. and 20. Tulane and Santa Clara, each 44.

Others receiving votes: College of Pacific, 38; North Carolina, 31; Pennsylvania, 24; Wisconsin, 23; Villanova, 8; UCLA and Texas, each 7; Princeton and Duke, each 4; Alabama and Tennessee, each 3; Texas Christian and Boston U., each 2; Wake Forest, Missouri, Illinois and Xavier, each 1.

Virginia Fans' Vandals' Spree Irks Hotelmen

Mason-Dixon Line Is Proposed At Chester

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15 (AP) — Philadelphia hotelmen disclosed today they are considering their own Mason-Dixon line to keep University of Virginia football fans out of town when Virginia plays here.

Bennett E. Tousley, president of the Philadelphia Hotel Association, declared Virginia backers showed "they certainly were not southern gentlemen" ten days ago when the Cavaliers upset Penn 26-14.

Tousley asserted that Virginia students and alumni who checked in to two downtown hotels were "steamed up on whiskey and waving confederate flags," and went on a vandals' spree.

A meeting with members of the hotelmen's association, Tousley said, unanimously decided that if Virginia plays here again "we won't take reservations from anyone south of Chester" — 15 miles from Philadelphia.

Tousley disclosed that the hotelmen would seek an appointment with President Colgate W. Darden of Virginia University to work out a "cooperative plan" against "any tremendous damage again."

President Is Distressed

President Darden said at Charlottesville he was "distressed at the damage done in Philadelphia," and called it "inexcusable."

He said the university student council has asked detailed information from hotelmen here in order to deal with any offending students, but that no reply has been received as yet.

Darden expressed willingness to meet with hotelmen, and added that before the university can act officially he must know the extent of damage, and who caused it.

Tousley, told of Darden's statement, commented that "supplying names of the offenders may be most difficult." He expressed appreciation to the university head for "extending us the courtesy of an interview" and said hotelmen hope for an amicable solution to the situation. No inquiry from the Virginia student council has been received by the association as yet, Tousley said.

Several thousand University of Virginia students, old grads and rooters came to Philadelphia for the Nov. 5 game. The Virginia fans made the Adelphia and Benjamin Franklin hotels their headquarters.

Tousley said visitors wrecked considerable equipment when Virginia played Penn here in 1947, he said. (Penn won that game, 19-7).

Tousley had no estimate of the damage this time. Here are some of the things he said some of the visitors did:

Broke Every Sand Jar

Annoyed elevator operators; threw beer in the face of a young negro elevator girl; ran around halls all night long, tore down fire hose, smashed signs and broke every sand jar in the Adelphia, ripped down glass-edged signs in the lobby.

Asked for his own estimate of the number of the visitors, Tousley replied:

"Too many."

Paul Hoffman Stars, Bullets Win, 81-76

BOSTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—A desperate last ditch bid by the Boston Celtics fell short at the Boston Garden tonight as they dropped an 81-76 decision to the Baltimore Bullets. It was Baltimore's second consecutive decision of the infant National Basketball Association season and Boston's fourth defeat in five starts.

Walter Budko with 14 points and Tommy Byrnes with 12 were other double digit men for the victors.

Charges Are Dropped Against Hockeyists

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 (AP)—Charges of assault with a deadly weapon (their hockey sticks) against two Montreal Canadian players were dropped in municipal court today.

The case resulted from a rinkside melee at Chicago Stadium Nov. 3 involving Leo Gravelle and Ken Reardon of the Canadians and four fans.

The charge against Gravelle was dismissed and that against Reardon was nolle prossed by Judge Joseph Hermes.

Other teams in the six-team league are Wheeling, Washington (Pa.), McKeesport and Butler-Ford-City, Pa.

Ratterman Will Leave Buffalo

Will Play With NFL Hornets Next Year

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP) — Quarterback George Ratterman of the All-America Football Conference Buffalo Bills confirmed today he will play for the New York Bulldogs in the rival National League next year.

He said his contract was for four years.

"Yes," said Ratterman, "I signed a New York Bulldogs' contract in August because the Buffalo Bills' coach didn't offer me one for 1949. I decided then to pass up playing this year and finish my education at Notre Dame University. I figured that I had better sign a contract then so I'd know where I'd be when I returned to the game.

"The Bulldogs held the National League draft rights to me, so I went to New York and signed with Mr. Collins (Ted Collins, Bulldogs president).

"After the Bills lost their opening game in Chicago, Mr. James Breuil of the Bills flew to South Bend to contact me and I signed to play with the Bills this season. I received Mr. Collins' permission to do so."

Collins announced yesterday that Ratterman would play for him next year. Ratterman would not confirm or deny the report until this afternoon.

Groza Sets Pace In Cage League

Scores 175 Points For Average Of 25

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — Alex Groza, the former Kentucky star now playing with the Indianapolis Olympians, took over virtually all the scoring honors in sight in the National Basketball Association during the past week.

Alex Groza

Thanks largely to a great 41-point night against the New York Knickbockers Nov. 10, Groza ran his total points to 175 in seven games and took a big 35-point lead over runner - up Joe Fulks of Philadelphia. Tall George Mikan of Minneapolis is third with 123 points.

Groza also leads all his professional rivals with an average of 25 points per game, followed by Mikan with 24.6, Fulks with 20 and Jim Pollard of Minneapolis with 19.2. The ex-Kentucky ace has sunk 61 field goals, compared to 47 apiece for his closest rivals, Max Zaslofsky of Chicago and Vern Gardner of Philadelphia.

In actual percentage of field goals scored, Al Cervi of Syracuse leads the 17-team circuit at .606. Ed MaCauley of St. Louis has dropped in the most foul shots, 54, one more than Groza. Andy Phillip of Chicago is credited with the most assists, 34, and Bob Brown of Denver has accumulated the most personal fouls, 42.

As a team, the New York Knickerbockers have piled up 695 points compared to 577 for their closest rivals, Indianapolis, but the Knicks have played two more games than the Olympians.

Jockey Injured, In Steeplechase

Arctic Bound Falls, Williams Is Hurt

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP)—Under a hustling ride by Johnny Gilbert, Brookmeade Stable's Pilayya got up by a head in the final strides to defeat Isle of Mist in the featured North Star III Purse at Pimlico today.

Three horses finished in a heap on the wire but Pilayya, the $4.60 for two choice succeeded with Isle of Mist second and Cherrys First, the 30-1 outsider, getting the show.

Cherrys First sprinted to a long lead at the start of the six-furlong event with Pilayya, breaking from the outside No. 12 stall about sixth on the backstretch. Gilbert circled to drive the two-year-old daughter of Pilate home first.

Today's steeplechase was marred when Arctic Bound fell heavily at the third from last jump and Jockey Charles Williams crashed to the ground. An examination at the track dispensary disclosed a possible pelvis fracture.

Williams was sent to Bon Secours Hospital in Baltimore. Arctic Bound, a 5-year-old gelding owned by the Llangollen Farm and trained by Jude Johnson fractured a shoulder and was destroyed.

Oak Leaf also fell when leading by some 15 lengths. Harry Harris, the rider, suffered a lacerated nose. Ratcatcher went on to win the 'chase at a $7.20 payoff.

Crystal Boot Scores

SALEM, N. H., Nov. 15 (AP) — R. N. Webster's Crystal Boot got up just in time to account for the Colts allowance feature of today's racing at Rockingham Park. The Out-Boots-Occult colt was far back as Honeywell farm's Good Egg set a fast early pace, followed by Clarence Hartwick's Flag Drill, N. T. Horne's Kandycal and Murlogg Farm's Admired.

Entering the stretch Good Egg was still on top by two lengths but went back to the contention at about the sixteenth pole at Kandycal assumed command momentarily. Crystal Boot, ridden by Albert Treptor came with a rush on the outside and edged Flag Drill by half a length with Kandycal third a head back. The winner turned the six furlongs in slow going in 1:12.4.

Prices were Crystal Boot $10.40, $4.00 and $2.80, Flag Drill $3.00 and $2.40 and Kandycal $3.00. The attendance was 6,760.

How They Make the Ball You Miss

AP Newsfeatures

The golfing season is winding up in many parts of the country, and it seems like a good time to take apart the ball many dubs have been trying to cut up all season.

At the MacGregor-Goldsmith plant in Cincinnati, golf balls are made in the eight important setps below. In the photo above is a breakdown of a ball showing the component parts. At left is the liquid center, mostly castor oil. It is frozen. Next is the rubber ball which is molded around the liquid center. The rubber has been cut to show the liquid pellet. Next is the rubber ball after it has been rounded and trimmed. Then follows the starting wind, the finishing wind, the cover material, the two halves of the cover, the halves around the ball, the cover after it has been vulcanized and dimpled, and finally the ball as it looks for play.

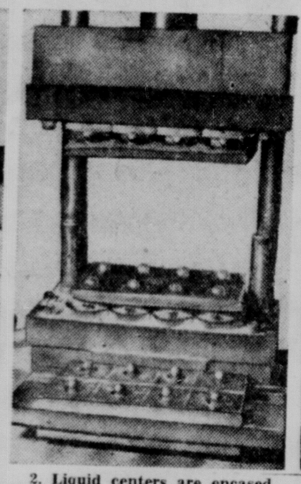

Approximately 106 feet of unstretched rubber go into the winding and the rubber is stretched as it is wound on the ball.

After the ball has come from the vulvanizing and dimpling mold, it is buried in sulphur in a room in which a temperature of 100 degrees is maintained constantly to "cure" the cover.

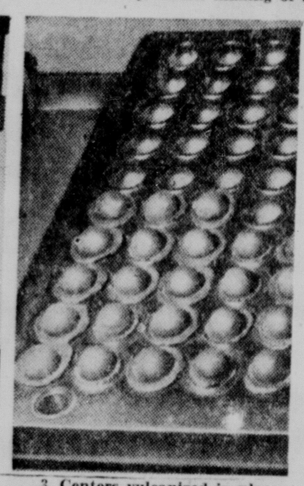

The steps in the making of a golf ball are illustrated below:

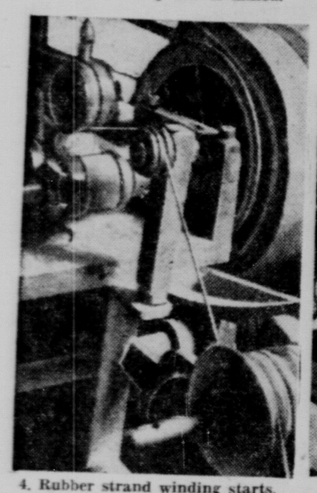

1. Rubber compound is milled.

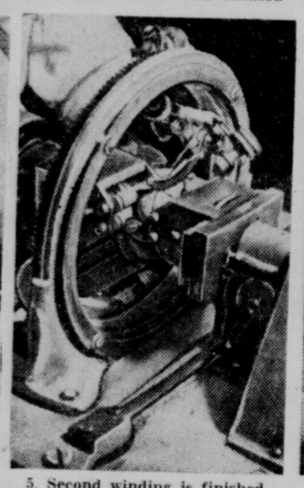

2. Liquid centers are encased

3. Centers vulcanized in place.

4. Rubber strand winding starts.

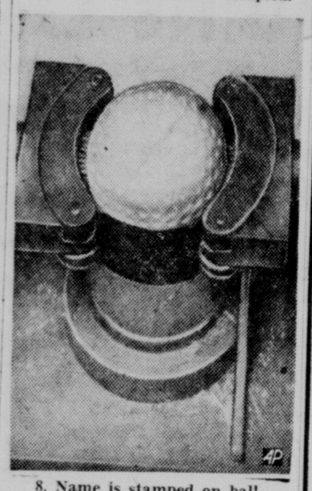

5. Second winding is finished.

6. Golf ball cover is made.

7. Cover vulcanized and dimpled.

8. Name is stamped on ball.

HOUSTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — Rice Institute officials announced today plans to construct a new 50,000-seat football stadium.

Cleveland Browns' Owner Would Quit If Circuits Merge

CLEVELAND, Nov. 15 (AP) — The owner of the All-America Football Conference champions, the Cleveland Browns, declared today he will quit pro football if the conference ever merges with the National Football League.

Arthur B. (Mickey) McBride said his statement was touched off by an announcement by Ted Collins, owner of the NFL's New York Bulldogs.

Collins said George Ratterman, quarterback of the AAC's Buffalo Bulls, would shift over to his team next year. Ratterman would not confirm on deny Collins' statement.

Asked by newsmen whether he would go into the National League if the AAC were broken up and he were invited into the other pro football outfit, McBride answered, "No." "The only chance for success pro football has is to operate with two leagues," he said. 'Peacefully, I mean, with a world championship playoff between them at the end of the season.

"If pro football returned to only the National League," McBride asserted, "it would just be going backward, like in the old days of poor scheduling with a couple of hardheads running the show."

Justice Turns Down Pro Grid Offers

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 15 (AP) —All America Charlie Justice said tonight he would not play professional football.

The University of North Carolina senior tailback previously had said he would not turn pro unless he received an offer that was too attractive to turn down.

"It's time to quit," he said tonight. "I'm 26 and I have been playing football for a long time (11 years—in high school, for a service team and in college). I want to get started in a coaching job and the sooner I get into it the better. If I went pro I'l lose a couple of years."

World Student Needs Cited

FROSTBURG — Miss Joanne Hammerman, traveling secretary for the World Student Service Fund, was the guest speaker Monday at an assembly of State Teachers College.

She recalled some of her experiences in Europe during 1948 when she made an International Student Service tour and participated in an I.S.S. conference in France.

A graduate of Mount Holyoke in 1949, Miss Hammerman majored in political science and international relations. In her discussion of the needs of students in many countries, she stated that contributions come from 18 countries to the World Student Service Fund, with Danish students contributing more percapita than American students and the French students recently changed from receiving to giving funds.

The theme of the organization this year is "They Still Need You." Special emphasis was placed on the needs of students in Europe, southeast Asia and China for materials of all kinds to continue their studies. She related that doctors who are badly needed in Asia must have enough material to complete their training.

The international value of the fund was cited by the speaker who said that students learn to give and share materials as well as to receive them. She told of a Chinese boy who gave one of two suits he possessed and of 30 students who shared a single pencil.

Keyser City Employes Get 5 Paid Holidays

Workers Will Choose Days

KEYSER, W. Va. — Employes of the City of Keyser's street and water departments who are on an hourly wage basis were granted their choice of five of the seven holidays observed in the state each year, at the regular semi-monthly meeting of council held Tuesday afternoon.

The council body voted to permit the employes to choose the five holidays they prefer, and adoption of the majority vote will be made at the next meeting of council.

The employes were granted holidays for Thanksgiving and Christmas this year, but their vote will apply on the holidays for each year, beginning January 1.

Councilmen Lester Oates and William Stafford asked for the holidays with pay for the two departments to equalize working conditions, as near as possible that are granted to other city departments that have days off regularly each year in addition to paid vacation time.

The council agreed that early action should be taken to fill the hole on the vacant lot at the corner of North Mineral and Centre Streets with dirt before the rainy season begins and causes the formation of a pool.

The mayor said the State Road Commission had promised to fill in the hole but Councilman Oates said he could have the fill made. The hole is that which has been discussed as a site to be used as a small park, or for the erection of a building for the city.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Volunteer Fire Department, through Councilman Glenn Smith, asked the council to arrange for a flue to be cut through the roof of the fire hall, to carry off fumes from the cooking range in the room that is to be used as a kitchen. Council objected to taking any action at this time as the building was constructed for using an electric range. The matter was tabled.

At yesterday's meeting, a new plan for collecting garbage during the winter months was given favorable consideration. The present contract under ordinance, for collecting garbage during the spring, summer and fall, expires with the collection to be made the first of December. Council voted to adopt a plan for the winter months, and will have the ordinance revised.

The new plan is set to operate for seven months, expiring on July 1, 1950, and will require that residents call at the City Clerk's office before the first of December and sign in consent, paying $3.50, at the rate of 50 cents a month to July 1, 1950.

Bids were received for liability insurance for both the City Hall and Fire Hall. No action was taken.

A committee representing the Fire Department, the Keyser Citizens' Committee, members of council, and the mayor will go to Washington tomorrow to look over some heating units the government has for sale. The group expects to find something there that can be used in heating the new fire hall.

Girl Dies During Automobile Trip

WESTERNPORT — Miss Ardath Heck, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Heck, Cleveland, O., died, apparently of carbon monoxide poisoning, during an automobile trip through Illinois Monday. Her mother is the former Gertrude Chaney of Westernport.

Miss Heck, a high school student at Cleveland, was travelling with a brother-in-law and sister when she complained of a headache and lay down on the back seat of the car.

The other two occupants, who felt no effects of the gas, surmised that Miss Heck died because her head was nearer the floor.

Mrs. Beatrice Chaney, Akron, O., grandmother of Miss Heck, and a sister of Mrs. Dwight L. P. Noland, Rock Street, who was here to attend the funeral of Mr. Noland, left for Cleveland Monday night for Miss Heck's funeral.

City, B & O Sued In Accident

KEYSER, W. Va. — The City of Keyser became co-defendant with the B & O Railroad Company in two damage suits, as the result of claims filed by Mrs. Mary S. Webber, for $5,000 damages, and her husband Ralph E. Webber, of Clarksburg, for $1,500.

Both actions were filed in Mineral County Circuit Court recently with the declaration being filed November 9. The cases will be called at the January term.

The plaintiffs in the two actions charge negligence on the part of both the railroad company and the city of Keyser, in that there was a hole in the street at the railroad company's passenger station on North Mineral Street.

Mrs. Webber claims she suffered from shock, internal injuries and bruises on her arms, legs, hands and other parts of her body, when she stepped into a hole in the street in August, 1948.

The husband sues for loss of his wife's services in their home and for money expended by him for medical care and medicines. Johnson and Johnson, Clarksburg attorneys, are representing the plaintiffs.

The B & O disclaims any responsibility in the cases, claiming the accident didn't occur on its property, but on a street of the City of Keyser.

Suit Filed In Car Accident

KEYSER, W. Va.—Jacob B. Martin, Wiley Ford, has filed suit for $1,000 damages against William Jennings Oates, Burlington, in Mineral County Circuit Court.

Martin charges that his 1941 Oldsmobile sedan was badly damaged October 13, while on Route 28, near the junction with the Wiley Ford road. He claims that Oates' ton-and-a-half truck ran against the front fender of the car and then slid off to the other side of the road and struck another vehicle. The truck is owned by David K. Rinker, Junction, W. Va.

The plaintiff states that his car was not moving, and was on the right side berm of the road and on the right of the truck's motion.

The plaintiff is represented by Attorneys H. G. Shores and Howard P. Shores. Attorney H. R. Athey represented the defendant.

Menefee, Farmers and Merchants Bank of Keyser, Gerald Menefee and Mary E. The jury at that time rendered a judgment of $5,000.

The $2,500 was shown to be on deposit in the name of Mary E. Menefee in the Farmers and Merchants Bank, and the court ordered payment to the plaintiff.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15 (INS)—Fredric March, who always seems to have his tongue in his cheek about Hollywood, and looks down his nose, is being paged by Stanley Kramer for "Cyrano de Bergerac." Did I say nose? It was purely accidental, I assure you.

I am afraid I am not one of Mr. March's great adcirers, and I was not sold on his "Christopher Columbus," but there are those who are and who found him all that Chris should be when he sailed from Spain to discover America.

Mr. March will have a lot of competition in "Cyrano." Jose Ferrer was great on the stage, and when I was a very young girl I was taken to see Richard Mansfield, and then there was Walter Hampden. But, if Mr. March can overcome his feeling about Hollywood perhaps he'll sign for the picture, and then we can compare him to the other Cyranos.

From Paris comes news that Walter Wanger has a new bankroll and a contract to produce 12 Romulus films in London. His backers are Jimmy and John Woolfe, who are said to have been a part of the J. Arthur Rank movie empire in the early days of affluence.

Included in those 12 is "Ballad and the Source," which stars Joan Bennett, and Greta Garbo's picture based on "The Duchess of Langeais," which starts in April—or at least Walter hopes will start in April if Garbo doesn't get frightened again.

Most of his pictures on this deal will be made abroad. He, himself, realized more money on "Joan of Arc" in Europe than he did in America.

Greg Bautzer and Ginger Rogers are invited to compete in the "Pimms Cup" tournament at Palm Springs Sunday. Ginger is a top tennis player and Greg is very good, too, but Ginger starts her picture this week. Others in the tournament are Gary Cooper, Mrs. William Powell, Evelyn Keyes, Jack Warner and Dick Haymes.

In a very newsy letter from Bennett Cerf he tells me that Mrs. Arthur Hornblow's novel, "Memory and Desire," is high on the list of the spring Random House best novels. Arthur and George Oppenheimer found the title in one of T. S. Eliot's poems.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

John Agar being seen around New York with Rhonda Fleming needn't excite Hollywood too much. Both are with the Selznick young stars on tour.

Lou Costello, who underwent an operation last week, will be well enough to start work December 1. His pal and partner, Bud Abbott, is working on the script of "Foreign Legion" at Universal-International.

Dr. Herman B. Baruch, brother of Barney Baruch, is in Hollywood with his bride. He is being shown the town by Polan Banks, who is married to his niece.

Steffi Dunna is home from St. Vincent's Hospital but she has to stay in bed two more months to give her leg a chance to heal.

Those who met Morgan Ryan when he was married to Arline Judge (he was her 4th husband) will be interested to know he was married over the weekend to Nancy Wright, Milwaukee heiress and veddy, veddy social.

Mary Boland telegrams to say: "In Jimmy Fidler's broadcast he mentioned a stage play in the making, lampooning you, in which I am starred. If this is true it is news to me. Best regards. Mary Boland." Why, Jimmy, how could you make such a mistake?

Frances and Edgar Bergen, June Allyson and Dick Powell were at Mocambo to hear Vic Damone. They agreed with me that he has a lot of charm. He looks a little like Tony Martin and I think MGM can do a lot with him.

Edward G. Robinson's son, Manny, is trying for a stage career in New York. He was associated with that stage venture of young Sydney Chaplin's in Hollywood.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

The forty-third annual Christmas Seal Sale will be conducted from November 21 to December 25 to raise funds for the nationwide tuberculosis control and prevention programs of the 3,000 associations affiliated with the National Tuberculosis Association.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—The passing show:

Mr. Vishinsky has had an interesting change of heart. After years of rejecting United States efforts to set up a kind of impartial control and inspection of what each country is doing in atomic research, the terrible tempered Mr. Bangski has cracked.

From the floor of United Nations headquarters at Lake Success—where the peace-makers share a building with a firm making new and improved bombsights—Mr. V. has invited observers to come over to Russia, "and look at . . . touch . . . and smell our A-bomb."

Swell, let's go. And let me volunteer as chief smeller of the expedition. I come equipped, Mac. Saw an a-bomb go off at Bikini, but the United States Navy doublecrossed me and planted me ten miles upwind. Never got a whiff of it, for its radioactive cloud blew away in the opposite direction.

Maybe Mr. V. let something out of the bag by mentioning the smell. Perhaps he inadvertently disclosed a military secret and, upon his return, may be invited to go to work in a nice, healthy Siberian labor camp for the next 30 years.

The Atomic Energy Commission must now speculate on just what Russia has done to improve the a-bomb by adding an aroma. Did they blend it with a stench bench? Or, more cunningly, do they add five gallons of one of those perfumes we keep reading about—one shot of which could change Marjorie Main into a sultry, indolent temptress.

That seems more likely. The Russians probably will drop an a-bomb on us, spiked with "Redolent Rapture, No. 7." The dames will promptly slip into something slithery, and our men will become their helpless prey. We shall soon be slaves, but sweet-smelling ones.

• — • — •

The falsies industry, which was getting bigger than United States Steel and risking government censure for its size, was dealt a buckling blow early this week. A Los Angeles plastic surgeon, Dr. H. Otto Bames, told the American Medical Women's Alliance that a revolutionary new operation can change flat-chested gals into Jane Russells. Or even Mae Wests.

Dr. Bames produced testimony from one satisfied customer of his scalpel. She said, "I never had anything before—and now it's all me!" One of those matchless statements which will ring down the corridors of United States annals with "Don't give up the ship," and "I didn't know it was loaded."

If Irving Berlin is in New York 10 nights a'running, he'll see his "Miss Liberty" at least nine of those nights. Some New York critics believe this is self-torture approaching sadism, but Berlin has been around long enough to know a good one when he sees it. And an increasing number of people believe with him.

The 62-year-old composer, whose life story makes Horatio Alger seem like a failure, took the bad revues on "Miss Liberty" very much to heart. He has not stopped trying to improve his latest masterpiece. He paces the standing-room section of the theater; catches portions of the opus from a seat, or an aisle on the side, or in the wings, or gallery.

The greatest balladeer this land has produced loves his show, for there is much in it that must remind him of what his adopted land has done for him.

The man who worked himself up from a $6-a-week singing waiter to a double-A ASCAP rating, and who has donated almost $15,000,000 in royalties over the past 10 years to Army emergency relief, the Boy and Girl Scouts of America and other public-spirited projects, will never quit on "Miss Liberty."

Lot of people are coming around to the same notion. For the past 17 weeks it has played to packed houses. Backers have been repaid 60 per cent of their money and will get the rest by mid-winter. A road company and picture version are being readied. And Berlin keeps working, and attending, and tinkering.

Man Found Guilty Of Assault Charge

After admitting assaulting Mary E. Bates, this city, Lester Walker, 1008 Gay Street, was given a suspended 30-day sentence yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew paroled him for one year. Walker was also ordered to pay the complainant's Hospital expenses and be of good behavior generally.

In Police Court, Rush A. Morrison, 855 Mt. Royal Avenue, was given a suspended sentence on a disorderly conduct charge preferred by Mrs. Charlotte White, 145 Polk Street.

The woman testified Morrison used profane and obscene language after she entered the City Cafe and asked him not to sell her husband drinks.

Morrison denied the charge and had three witnesses appear in his defense. Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti presided.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

L R P Q Q E L V O T C V V C V N H N K T H T L C R E V U C H L T V O J N R V K Q O N K T D T L X P O C C R E V — V U L H O.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: NO SUN UPON AN EASTER DAY IS HALF SO FINE A SIGHT!—SUCKLING.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE VERY GOOD "ALWAYS"

YOU HEAR it said often that there are no "nevers" or "alwayses" in good bridge. That is a nice-sounding bromide, but it is not true. There are some very good specimens of each. In fact both terms may be applied to a single subject. One way to cover it is by saying: "Never play to the first trick until you have made a plan for the hand." Another is: "Always make a plan for the entire hand before you play the first trick."

	♠ K 7 ♥ A K Q 5 2 ♦ 4 ♣ J 9 6 4 2
♠ Q J 10 8 2 ♥ 10 ♦ K J 10 ♣ K 10 7 5	N W E S	♠ 9 6 5 3 ♥ J 4 3 ♦ 8 7 6 5 3 ♣ 3
	♠ A 4 ♥ 9 8 7 6 ♦ A Q 9 2 ♣ A Q 8

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	5 NT	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	6 NT

When South learned that his partner had two kings, from his response to the Blackwood 5-No Trumps, he decided to put the slam into No Trumps instead of the safer hearts. That would have been unpardonable at rubber bridge, but this was match-point duplicate, and the No Trump slam could outscore the heart slam of other players.

West opened the spade Q and South counted up tricks quickly. "What a cinch," he thought, as he noted five easy tricks in hearts, four in clubs even if the finesse lost, two in spades and one in diamonds without even finessing. So he promptly played the K on the spade lead, without further study. Now just see what that did to him. After three top hearts, and not until then, he discovered the suit was blocked and dead. Next he finessed the club J, then the Q, which West took. Now the clubs were blocked too. So all he could score included four tricks in hearts, two each in the black suits and one in diamonds, and was down three.

If he had analyzed the various suits, he should have taken the first trick in his own hand, scored the heart tops and the 9, next the club A, followed by leading the club Q. It would have made no difference whether West used the K then or later. That would have assured five tricks in hearts, four in clubs, two in spades and one in diamonds to make his contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A K J 10 ♥ K J 10 8 3 2 ♦ 3 ♣ J 9
♠ 9 7 6 5 ♥ A 9 5 ♦ 4 ♣ 8 7 5 2	N W E S	♠ 8 4 3 2 ♥ Q 7 6 ♦ K J 10 9 4 ♣ Q
	♠ Q ♥ None ♦ A 8 7 6 5 2 ♣ A K 10 6 4 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If natural bidding is done by North and South, what should West lead against 6-Clubs?

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Here's the latest in modern transportation.

Yes, sir, man has progressed through centuries of scientific achievement from the oxcart through the horseless carriage to the jet plane. And now at last it's here . . . What the world's been waiting for . . . mule train.

This song became a hit in a hurry. In fact, Vaughn Monroe recorded it so fast, he trampled the ghost riders in the sky.

Not only did Vaughn rush out a recording but, within minutes, Frankie Laine, Gordon MacRae and Tennessee Ernie had their song-pluggers pushing their own version of "Mule Train." It was played so many time in one day, Petrillo was elected president of the Teamsters Union.

One singer was too speedy for himself. He had it up to Number 3 on the Hit Parade and the composer was still working on the last chorus.

Of course, this fast song-plugging puts a lot of pressure on the arrangers. One arranger was working so swiftly he forgot whether he was stealing from Hoagy Carmichael or Tchaikovsky.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should you resent your wife's having once loved someone else?

Answer: Certainly not, if in the end she chose you, not him, and still less if she loved him before she knew you. A girl who reached marriageable age without feeling some sentimental interest in some man—or several of them—is likely to be too emotionally immature to be a real wife. A woman's capacity to love does not spring into being full-blown when she "meets the right man"—it develops gradually, more or less by trial and error, as a man's does. Your wife's present and future may be yours, but her past is her own.

Do some people need more sleep than others?

Answer: Obviously, since some people WANT more sleep than others, and in principle, you need as much sleep as you want. To function at your best, you should sleep until you are rested and ready to "rise and shine." Two reasons why certain people may seem to need an exceptional amount of sleep are (1) that they don't sleep soundly, and so get less rest than most of us in the same number of hours; and (2) that they use sleep to "escape" practical problems which they don't want to face. Some severe neurotics sleep for weeks at a time.

Should you tell a child he stutters?

Answer: Never, warns Dr. Wendell Johnson, specialist in speech disorders at the University of Iowa. As far as you can, do nothing by word, gesture or facial expression to make a child conscious of the interruptions in his speech. Try to see and avoid the conditions under which the interruptions occur, but remember also that it's natural for any child to hesitate, and that your child speaks fluently some or most of the time. Speak calmly yourself, don't interrupt him, and make him feel that you love him and want to hear what he's saying.

Stocks Gently Settle To 4-Week Low With Fair Amount Of Business

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — The stock market gently settled to a four-week low today.

A fair amount of business was done, however, with turnover of 1,250,000 shares exactly even with Monday. Transfers of several large blocks of stock helped to bolster the sales figure.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped .4 of one point to 66.9, lower since 66.5 was touched Oct. 17. Industrials made the poorest showing, with rails and utilities well in the rear.

A total of 1,077 individual issues traded, of which 617 were marked down and 201 advanced. New highs for the year were scored by 20 issues while 8 dropped to their new lows.

General Motors, the most actively traded issue, dropped away further from the 1949 high established last week in the wake of a $4.25 year-end dividend.

Transactions in GM were made two ways, regular way and cash. The final price, figured the regular way and which did not include the dividend, was 64⅝, down 2. The final cash price, which included the dividend, was 68⅞, also down 2.

Universal laboratories made a ½-point comeback to 5 after being hammered down 3¼ points Monday.

Baltimore & Ohio retained a ⅛-point gain at 8⅝ but losses running to a point were posted for Sante Fe at 93, Southern Railway 30¼, Chesapeake & Ohio 28, Union Pacific 80, and Southern Pacific 44½. Unchanged were N. Y. Central at 10, Pennsylvania at 14, and Nickel Plate 79⅝.

The faint-hearted response of the rails to the fare boost decision reflected doubt whether a higher fare would increase revenues or actually cut them because of competitive forms of transportation. A minority of the I. C. C. raised this question.

Two big blocks of Northern States power hit the ticker tape just before the close. One 10,000-share lot sold at 10½, down ¼, quickly followed by 17,500 shares at the same price.

Also lower were American Power & Light, Columbia Gas, North American Co., Southern Co., United Corp., U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Studebaker, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Admiral Corp., Radio Corp., American Telephone, Phelps Dodge, International Nickel, Benguet Consolidated Mining, Air Reduction, General Electric, Barnsdall Oil, Gulf Oil, Transcontinental & Western Air, and Celotex.

The emphasis shifted to selling in the corporate bond market and rail issues drifted lower.

Volume expanded as prices retreated and the day's turnover of $3,580,000 represented a fairly big advance over yesterday's $3,030,000.

Long-term U. S. treasury bonds continued their recent advance, gaining 1-32 of a point in fairly active over-the-counter trading.

County Leads In Medical Care Payments

Changes In State Program Outlined

On the basis of latest available figures, Allegany County leads all counties in Maryland in payments to physicians and dentists for work under the medical care program.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said payments totaled $7,622.13 in July and August, the first two months of the current state fiscal year.

Washington County bills were next highest, with $6,411.10 paid during the same period.

Allegany's medical care case load averages from 635 to 640 patients monthly.

At a meeting of the county Medical Care Advisory Committee last night, Dr. Frantz outlined various changes in the state program which have been made recently.

Under the new system, funds are set up on a monthly basis for each county.

Bills of physicians and dentists are paid by the state from those funds, with a prorating system in the event the funds are insufficient to cover all bills.

However, for the first three months of the current fiscal year, a state-wide balance of about $10,000 has been reported, and the prorating has not been necessary.

Previously, Allegany and other counties were given annual allocations, with Allegany's amounting to about $55,000.

The income scale to determine eligibility for the medically indigent program has been revised downward by about $200 on the average, Dr. Frantz said.

He estimated that medically indigent patients represent about 25 per cent of the entire medical care list in the county. This is slightly less than the state average.

Policies and fees for dental services also were outlined at the meeting. They became effective November 1.

Other members attending were Mrs. Elinor Westerfeld; County Commissioner James Holmes; Frank McCagh, Dr. Charles Owens and Dr. R. W. Trevaskis.

Rubber Workers Provide Food For Miners

Some of the two and one-half tons of food donated by members of the Rubber Workers union here are seen at the Salvation Army Citadel where it will be distributed to the families of needy coal miners of the Georges Creek section. Arranging the food for distribution are Miss Edith Darnley (left), secretary, and Mrs. Jane Catlett, of the Salvation Army Citadel staff.

Father Jailed On Charge Of Beating Baby

James R. Walburn Held In Oakland

A young Garrett County father accused of beating his five-months-old baby two weeks ago is being held in Garrett County Jail on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

The father, James Roscoe Walburn, 33, was jailed after he walked into the Sheriff's Office at Oakland yesterday and surrendered.

Walburn is accused of beating, shaking, slapping and squeezing his son to "keep him from crying." Police said his wife told them Walburn ignored her pleas to stop beating the child.

Magistrate H. A. Loraditch, who issued the warrant, said Deputy Sheriff Paul Fisher had obtained a warrant November 9 charging Walburn with assault and battery.

State's Attorney Dwight A. Stover, however, asked that the charge be changed to assault with intent to kill, Loraditch reported.

The alleged beating reportedly took place in the Walburns' Deep Creek Lake home two weeks ago. The child, taken to King's Daughter Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va., was reported in serious condition, and has since been removed to University Hospital, Baltimore.

Dr. George Martin of the Martinsburg hospital described the case as his "worst in 23 years of practicing medicine."

Walburn is expected to be given a hearing soon before Magistrate Loraditch.

WINS STATE POST — Richard H. Byrne, guidance director of Beall High School, Frostburg, will resign his post January 1 to accept a position as state supervisor of guidance for the Department of Education of New Hampshire.

Byrne To Become New Hampshire Guidance Head

Beall Instructor To Resign Jan. 1

Richard H. Byrne, Frostburg, guidance director of Beall High School, has resigned to accept a position at state supervisor of guidance for the Department of Education of New Hampshire.

Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, said Byrne's resignation, effective January 1, 1950, was accepted by the Board of Education yesterday.

A native of Lancaster, Pa., Byrne came here in September, 1948, as director of guidance service at Beall High.

A veteran of four years in the Army, he taught at Manor High School, Millerville, Pa., and at Upper Leacock High School, Leola, Pa., before coming to Allegany County.

He earned his A. B. degree at Franklin and Marshall College and his master's degree from Columbia University. He also attended Pennsylvania State College during his teaching career.

In announcing the resignation, Dr. Kopp said that while the Allegany County Board of Education is sorry to lose good teachers it is happy to congratulate a man who is so good he attracts the attention of other school systems which can offer a better position.

Byrne was selected from among a large number of applicants who were being considered for the state post in New Hampshire.

In submitting his resignation, subject to approval of the Board, Byrne said it will always be a warm experience to recall the high quality of personnel with whom he worked in Allegany County.

He added the "keen philosophical approach to the important business of guidance" here has been a valuable stimulant.

Appeals Court Gets Case On Accessory Firm

Partners Deny Plan To Defraud Creditors

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 15 (AP) — A supply house said today it was left holding the bag when a Cumberland auto accessories firm went out of business.

Inland Rubber Corporation of Illinois made this claim in arguments before the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Inland said it had been unable to collect a dime on a bill for $9,937 from United Distributors, defunct tire and auto accessory wholesale company at Cumberland.

A series of mortgages and property transfers with relatives gave Lewis Yankelevitz and S. Martin Kornblatt an excuse to avoid paying up, Inland said. The two men are partners in United Distributors.

"The whole scheme was a family conspiracy to enable Yankelevitz and Kornblatt to defraud their creditors," Inland said.

Deny Any Fraud

The partners denied there was any fraud in their complex financial arrangements.

Inland told this story:

Yankelevitz and Kornblatt bought a one-story brick building (at 136-138 North Mechanic Street) in Cumberland as their place of business. They put the property in the name of Norman Kline, a grocer and cousin of Yankelevitz and a brother-in-law of Kornblatt. Kline got a $12,000 mortgage from a Cumberland bank.

Last year the partners moved the business to a rented office at the corner of Smith and Mechanic streets. When Inland got a court order for payment of $9,937, a sheriff's sale of the business produced only $238, which the landlord claimed as back rent.

Meanwhile, the original brick building was rented to the Hi-Dee Club, Inc., a tavern, under a 10-year lease, for $225 a month. This lease was turned over to the Commercial Savings Bank of Cumberland to pay off the $12,000 mortgage.

It also developed that Norman Kline, in whose name the property was listed, had taken out a second mortgage of $7,000, payable to his father, Morris Kline, also a relative of Yankelevitz's.

All this, continued Inland lawyers, tied up the property in such a way that there was nothing for Inland to seize in collection of its unpaid bill.

Claims Operating Loss

"They were endeavoring during practically all of the year of 1948 to get all of the merchandise they could get on credit, dispose of same and practically all of their fixtures and equipment and go out of business, with their creditors helpless to collect anything at all," Inland said.

Denying this, Yankelevitz said the firm had an operating loss of about $22,000 for the first eight months of 1948 and had sold out most of its stock and furniture to pay other debts.

The partners appealed from a decree of Judge Oliver H. Bruce in Allegany County Circuit Court. Judge Bruce declared the second mortgage void and also ordered Norman Kline to turn the property back to Yankelevitz and Kornblatt, the actual owners.

County Asked To Improve Wagner Road

Oldtown PTA Voices Complaint To Board

Members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday indicated they will have County Engineer John J. Smith investigate the possibility of relocating and surfacing Wagoner Road in the Oldtown-Town Creek area, and would pursue plans to improve Lower Town Creek Road.

Walter Mueller, president of the Oldtown Parent - Teacher Association, and Mrs. Evelyn Twigg, a committee member, appeared before the Board and requested immediate consideration of these road improvements.

They explained that Wagoner Road is in such bad condition and is so dangerous that school buses cannot use it. Consequently a number of children walk as much as four miles to the school bus route, they explained.

The County Commissioners have been considering road repairs in that area, and the Lower Town Creek road is one of the projects in the 1949-50 program.

Mueller and Mrs. Twigg informed the commissioners that if Wagoner Road is made safe, George F. Reiter, principal of Oldtown School, said a school bus route would be established on the road.

County Commissioners said Engineer Smith would be told to make a report of his survey and estimates by Friday.

The Town Creek Valley Club, recently organized, has also been urging repairs to roads in that section.

Sidney Phillips also asked the Board to make repairs to Moore Hollow Road.

Weather

Natural enough for November, but still annoying, is the day-by-day slow drop of the thermometer. Yesterday, it stopped at the 57-degree mark and today's prediction is for even cooler temperatures. The minimum temperature was 31 degrees and it was 42 degrees late last night.

Forty And Eight Collects $358 For Heart Clinic

(Picture on Page 8)

The collection taken by the 40 and 8 Bucket Brigade during the Armistice Day parade totaled $358.50, or $72.50 less than last year's collection.

The money has been turned over to the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association for use in conducting their heart clinic and Rheumatic Fever program.

While the collection was a little less than that given last year, the county heart group actually received a greater amount, since last year half of the collection was sent to Baltimore for the state and national drive, but this year it all was kept in Cumberland.

Officers of the 40 and 8 analyzed this year's collection this way: Pennies, $22.50; nickles, $70; dimes, $110; quarters, $110; half-dollars, $30; dollar bills, $16; two street car tokens and one wire nail.

A check for the full amount has been turned over to Mrs. Effie Vogel, secretary of the heart clinic.

Heart clinics are being held twice each month at the city hall for persons of any age suffering from heart and kindred ailments.

Rubber Workers Provide 2 1-2 Tons Of Food For Needy Coal Miners

Cumberland's Rubber Workers have come to the aid of needy coal miners in the Georges Creek region.

R. C. Burkhart, president of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers of America (CIO) said yesterday that two and one-half tons of food supplies donated by members of the local will be distributed to families of needy coal miners.

The supplies, he added, were secured in voluntary collections made among members of the union last week.

"The Rubber Workers here," he said, "have not forgotten the help the Mine Workers gave us in 1936."

Union officials said they hoped the food will help to tide the neediest families over until the wage earners have a pay day.

Widespread reports have reached here, the union said, of real need among the children of the coal miners.

At least one child, the union said, fainted in school from hunger and there are reports of children looking in garbage cans for food.

The voluntary drive at the Kelly local resulted from a suggestion made recently by Ralph C. Beard, former president of the local, who, with Burkhart, conducted the campaign.

The small mountain of food was turned over to the Salvation Army, which is co-operating with the Rubber Workers in the distribution of the supplies.

Some of the workers donated food and others money.

With the money, the union officials purchased such staple foods as picnic hams, side meat, cheese, oleomargarine, lard, milk, flour, beans, sugar, rice, corn meal and cereals.

Large quantities of home canned vegetables and fruits — and quite a few vital cans of baby foods — were included in the supplies stored at the Salvation Army Citadel awaiting distribution.

Union officials said the Salvation Army has offered to distribute the food supplies.

United Mine Workers locals in the Georges Creek area have promised to recommend those who are in greatest need and to provide transportation to the Citadel here where the food is being distributed.

Supplies were handed over to nine families yesterday, according to Major Elmer Wall, commander, who estimated that the distribution will be completed this week.

Careful records are being made of those who are being helped upon the recommendation of UMW officials and social workers of the area.

In general, families are receiving a picnic ham, a slab of salt side, potatoes, rice, macaroni, cheese, lard, oleomargarine, corn meal, milk, sugar — from the purchased supplies, with the donated food furnishing additional variety to the food basket.

Major Wall said the size of the family and urgency of the need is carefully considered in making up the basket.

It was pointed out that many of the miners with large families were having tough sledding even before the strike since many of the mines had only enough orders to operate for two days a week.

The larger mines, of course, operated for the full three days, but where veins were smaller . . . and consequently more expensive to operate . . . orders were not sufficient to justify maximum operation.

Authorities here, it is reported, have received reports of children who repeatedly came to school without lunches and of others who turned up with sandwiches with nothing between the slices of bread.

Drive Planned To Make City "Fire Conscious"

Plans are underway for a concentrated city campaign to eliminate fire hazards in local dwellings and public places.

George M. Hitchcock announced yesterday that an organization meeting of campaign committees has been scheduled for December 14 at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Hitchcock, who is city smoke abatement engineer and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention Committee, will head the local group.

Representatives of service and civic clubs, churches, Scouts and other organizations, including auxiliary police, will be asked to serve.

As part of the campaign to make Cumberland "fire conscious," essay and picture contests will be held, with an annual trophy and cash awards to be offered, Hitchcock said.

The current drive will be climaxed next March 14-15 by a two-day inspection of all public and commercial buildings in Cumberland by a team of 40 state fire inspectors.

They will make their headquarters at Carroll Hall during the inspection.

Private homes will be reached through school children, who will see movies and hear talks on fire hazards in the home. "Self-inspection" questionnaires will be distributed to families through school children for a check of existing hazards.

Outside speakers will be invited here from Annapolis and Baltimore and films will be shown in local theatres as part of the campaign.

State inspectors will check all hotels, schools, theatres, stores and other business places, hospitals and public buildings during their visit next March. There will be no official inspection of any dwelling unit.

Industries will not be included because they have their own safety departments, Hitchcock explained.

Preliminary steps were made yesterday at a meeting of officials of the Cumberland Fire Department and the State Fire Prevention Association at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, with Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan presiding.

State Insurance Commissioner Claude A. Hanley is expected to have two observers here during the city-wide inspections next March, state officials said.

Where violations are noted during the inspection, red tickets will be handed out with a number denoting the type violation. A pamphlet will be given the property owner in which the various type violations are listed by number.

There is no penalty for having a violation or failure to comply with the recommendations of the state association.

Attending yesterday's meeting in addition to Keegan and Hitchcock were Capt. Joseph Hoban and Assistant Chief Robert P. Reid of the Cumberland Fire Department; Charles H. Stephans, president of the SFPA; H. M. Gibbs, Jr., SFPA chairman of the speakers' committee; W. F. Bissett, vice president of the SFPA; O. J. Hess, SFPA public buildings chairman.

City Sends Ton Of Relief Goods

Cumberland donated approximately one ton of food, clothing and other overseas relief materials to the Church World Service center at New Windsor for the current period, Rev. Arthur Scrogum, president, told the Cumberland Ministerial Association at its meeting yesterday at Central YMCA.

A truck from New Windsor visited the city yesterday to pick up donations at the two collection centers, Living Stone Church of the Brethren and First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Scrogum said the relief truck will pay its next visit to Cumberland in February.

The articles most needed for overseas relief at present are all types of clothing, shoes for men and children, and fats for food and soap use, he said.

Following routine reports at yesterday's meeting, Rev. Scrogum outlined the history of Church World Service, which was organized in 1946. Thirty-four denominations join in sending materials to Europe, China and other foreign countries for distribution by churches there.

Refugees, displaced persons, the old, sick and crippled, and welfare institutions are the groups which the relief group is trying to aid.

In 1948, Rev. Scrogum said, 16,000 tons of material were sent overseas, while an additional $4,000,000 in cash contributions were made to the work.

The American Friends began church relief work during the First World War. They were joined by the Mennonites and the Church of the Brethren denominations during the Spanish and Chinese civil wars shortly before the outbreak of World War II.

Postoffice Gets New Trucks

Like children greeting Santa Claus, Cumberland Postoffice employes watched two brand spittin' new parcel post trucks roll up to the mail delivery room late yesterday afternoon.

For well over a year, the Postoffice has been expecting replacements for two second-hand 1938 and 1929 models which have delivered parcels for the Cumberland area since before the war.

According to postal officials, this is the first time the local office has received brand new models within the memory of most of the working force.

The two ton and a half 1950 trucks have only the mileage on their speedometers necessary to transport them from the factory in Detroit, Mich.

They were driven here by Thomas McHugh, Washington, D. C., and James Dezmits, Pittsburgh, Pa., members of the U. S. Postoffice Department's Motor Vehicle Service.

One truck driver, Herman Grabenstein, was so tickled with the new vehicles that he transferred his packages and finished his afternoon rounds in a 1950 model.

Playgrounds To Mark Kids' Day

Six Cumberland playgrounds will be opened on Saturday afternoon for programs in co-operation with the "National Kids Day" observance being sponsored locally by the Cumberland Kiwanis Club.

The respective playground associations will conduct a supervised program of games, contests and other entertainment from 2 p.m. until dusk.

Boys and girls of all ages are invited to take part.

In the event of rain, limited programs will be held at playgrounds which have shelters, Hoey said.

LaVale Maps To Go On Sale

New street directory maps of LaVale will go on sale immediately at main business places in that section and at the LaVale Fire Hall.

This was announced yesterday at the regular meeting of the LaVale lay health committee, the sponsoring group, by Mrs. A. E. Christner, chairman.

Proceeds from sale of the maps will go into a fund to build a new health center in that community.

The group re-elected present officers for the ensuing year, with the exception of Mrs. Thomas Williamson, who resigned as vice chairman. Mrs. Wayne Irvin was elected to succeed her.

Other officers include Miss Margaret Smith, secretary, and Mrs. John Coleman, treasurer.

Three new members who joined the group at the meeting are Mrs. William Ryan, Mrs. William Hart and Mrs. Charles Zacks. Mrs. Ryan was appointed advertising chairman.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rosenmerkel, public health nurse, cited the need for tonsillectomies and eye glasses for children.

The secretary was instructed to send letters of appreciation to Lester Bolinger of the City Engineering Department, who prepared the street map, and to Claude Woodward, assistant supervisor of county assessments, who furnished blueprints.

Letters of thanks also will be sent to the LaVale Baptist Chapel, where the group has been holding clinics and meetings for the past year, and to the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company.

The firemen have offered use of the Fire Hall for clinics.

Smokeater Tests May Start Soon

Second phase of the current fly ash reduction test series is scheduled to get underway at the Potomac Edison Company's river plant early next week.

This was announced yesterday by George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer.

Hitchcock said the tests will be conducted by the Smokeater Corporation of Washington D. C.

Steam pipe lines and other installations necessary for the tests are already being set up at the plant.

Meanwhile, Hitchcock said the results of the first test, made last week by the Acorn Refinery of Cleveland, probably will not be known until the end of this week.

PE engineers are studying data secured during the one-day test run and will report to the Smoke Abatement Department on their findings.

Hitchcock previously indicated he may ask for a longer test by Acorn if any percentage of improvement is shown in the report. Chemicals were used in an effort to cut down the amount of fly ash.

Parents of the boys had asked police to look for them after the youths left for school Monday morning and failed to report for classes or to return home.

A 21-year-old motorist, Charles Ketterman, Route 1, Ridgeley, posted $500 bond in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday for call by State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris "at any time needed."

The woman, Mrs. Mary Washington, about 70, of 170 Wineow Street, was reported in fair condition last night at Memorial Hospital. She suffered possible chest and leg injuries.
